DAY AFTER RIOTS

PRESSURE UP TO REMOVE TRUMP FROM OVAL OFFICE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

AMID buzz on the bumbling US President Donald Trump weighing options to grant himself an unprecedented pardon, pressure kept building up on his immediate removal from office, a day after the maverick's supporters staged a failed coup by storming the Capitol Hill after his instigation.

It now transpires that Trump later tweeted a video calling for peace and asking the mob to stand down only after White House counsel Pat Cipollone warned he would face criminal charges for inciting riots if he doesn't do so. The Department of Justice is already preparing to go after the mob and all those who played a role in the riots, including Trump.

House Speaker Nancy Pelosi and Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer met Vice President Mike Pence and asked him to invoke the 25th Amendment, which allows the V-P to take over if the President is incapacitated, but he rejected it. Pelosi later told the military to prevent Trump from initiating hostilities or ordering a nuclear strike. She also said Democrats will start the process to impeach Trump if he does not leave office.

Trump will not to be present at Biden's swearing-in ceremony. "To all of those who have asked, I will not be going to the Inauguration on January 20th," he tweeted.

Trump has less than two weeks to complete his term as Joe Biden is scheduled to take his oath of office as the next President on January 20. But with Trump's aides describing him as psychologically fragile, and one Republican likening him to mad King George, there were concerns over letting an unstable person stay at the helm even for a brief period.

The thought of self-pardon apparently crossed Trump's mind when he offered clemency to a whole bunch of people in his inner circle, including his relatives. While there is no clarity on what he wants to legally firewall himself against, his dodgy income tax statements, a recent phone call to rig the ballot count in Georgia and Thursday's incendiary speech to his supporters that led to the riots could qualify for criminal prosecution. P19

Focus shifts to SC as talks fail

Negotiations with farmers inconclusive; next meet on Jan 15; apex court hearing on Jan 11

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi / Chandigarh

THE eighth round of talks between protesting farmers and the Centre on Friday could not end the stalemate as both sides stuck to their stated positions. They agreed to meet on January 15 to continue the talks.

According to sources, the Centre made it clear it will not repeal the laws but is ready to make amendments. The government also claimed many farmer organisations have supported the laws.

The agitating farmers were told the Supreme Court will decide how to break the deadlock, sources said. The SC is likely to hear the case relating to the farm protest on January 11.

The meeting at Vigyan Bhawan in Delhi ended in less than two hours. Following the Centre's statement, some farmer leaders lost their cool and told the ministers that they will fight till their demands are met. The union leaders also did not take break for lunch or tea while the ministers took frequent breaks to discuss the situation.

Some farmer leaders flashed placards that read bill wapsi toh ghar wapsi (repeal the laws and we'll go home) and jitenge ya marenge (we'll win or die).

While Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar expressed hope that there will be some breakthrough in the next meeting, most union leaders said they have no such hopes.

Bharatiya Kisan Union, Punjab (Rajewal Group) president Balbir Singh Rajewal said, "We knew there will be no decision in this meeting as the government has been adamant, but still we came for the talks. We will attend the January 15 meeting too, as we don't want the government to claim that we are running away from talks." P9

13.90L Covid vaccine vials to arrive in Karnataka over the weekend

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA is likely to receive its first consignment of 13,90,000 anti-Covid-19 vaccine vials on Saturday or Sunday, and the Health Department is likely to start administering the vaccines from Monday itself.

Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar on Friday said he has received communication from the Union Health Ministry that "tomorrow or the day after, we will probably be receiving 13,90,000 vials of vaccine for the state. It's big, happy news for all of us." The minister made the announcement after visiting Aster CMI Hospital in Bengaluru, which was one of the facilities where the Covid vaccination dry run was held on Friday. However, later, while speaking in Chikkaballapur, Sudhakar said the vaccine vials that will arrive, will be distributed to all the districts and will probably be administered to the priority category — health care workers — from Monday itself.

"We have registered 6.30 lakh healthcare professionals across Karnataka till date. This includes more than one lakh workers from Bengaluru alone. Those who are left out, may be in some medical or dental colleges, have been requested to register too," he said.

After healthcare workers, people with co-morbidities and those above 60 years of age and other people working in the police and revenue departments will be vaccinated, he said.

The state has readied the infrastructure in anticipation of the arrival of the vaccines. As of now, there are 2,870 cold chain points and community health centres, public health centres and urban public health centres equipped with 3,201 ice-lined refrigerators (ILRs), 3,039 deep freezers, 3,312 cold boxes and 2,25,749 ice packs. This cold chain space available is sufficient to store all the childhood vaccines under Universal Immunisation Programme and the Inactivated Polio Vaccine received for Pulse Polio Campaign in January 2021, and also the Covid vaccines as well, when they arrive from the Centre. P9

PM to interact with CMs on Monday

Prime Minister Narendra Modi will interact with chief ministers of all states on January 11 to discuss the Covid-19 situation and the vaccination rollout in the country, his office said on Friday. This will be the Prime Minister's first interaction with chief ministers following the recent approval of two coronavirus vaccines for restricted emergency use by India's drug regulator. India is preparing for the rollout of Covid-19 vaccines. The PM has often spoken with state chief ministers following the pandemic's outbreak in the country.

State-wide dry run smooth, but tech glitches persist

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE second dry run for the Covid-19 vaccine, held across Karnataka on Friday, was conducted smoothly, barring some technical problems, mainly in Udupi and Bengaluru. Vaccination centres experienced issues pertaining to network connectivity and non-receipt of the one-time password (OTP) by 'beneficiaries', generated on the CoWIN portal, leading to confusion and delays.

The dry run — basically a mock drill ahead of the actual Covid-19 vaccination drive — was conducted across 281 health centres all over the state, which included district hospitals, medical colleges, taluk hospitals, community health centres, primary health centres, urban primary health care centres and private health centres.

However, technical issues were experienced with the CoWIN portal, mainly in Udupi and Bengaluru. Health officials noticed problems with the OTP generation, a prerequisite to authenticate the identity of the person receiving the vaccination and to upload data on the CoWIN app.

In Udupi, a frontline Covid warrior who had volunteered, failed get his OTP even after half an hour on his mobile phone at the Government MCH hospital. Vaccination officers later found it was not an anomaly, but that the beneficiary was not carrying the mobile phone seeded with his/her Aadhaar number. P3

No restriction on sale of poultry products in state

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN an attempt to allay any fears over consuming chicken and eggs after cases of bird flu were reported in neighbouring Kerala and some other states, the Karnataka Government on Friday clarified that there is no restriction on the sale of poultry products in the state.

"There is no restriction on the sale of poultry products and people can consume them without any apprehensions," Animal Husbandry Minister Prabhu Chavan said, after chairing a virtual meeting with Deputy Commissioners of all the districts to review the situation.

Adequate precautionary measures are being taken and no bird flu cases have been reported in Karnataka, Chavan stated after the meeting.

The statement from the minister came after chicken prices dropped drastically at some places, including Davangere and Chitradurga. Due to the fear of bird flu, the demand for poultry products, including eggs, has dropped noticeably.

The minister said that except for poultry products from Kerala, Karnataka has not imposed restrictions on transportation of poultry products from any other state.

The state has banned entry of poultry products from Kerala and also sounded a high alert across the state, especially in the border districts.

Officials of the Animal Husbandry, Forest, Rural Development, Police and other departments have been asked to work in coordination to keep a close watch on the situation.

Border districts told to be vigilant

Animal Husbandry Minister Prabhu Chavan said officials in bordering districts of Dakshina Kannada, Kodagu, Mysuru and Chamarajanagar have been told to be extra vigilant and also report cases of unnatural bird deaths. They have also been told to closely watch poultry farms and sanctuaries.

Babri case: AIMPLB moves HC over letting off Advani, others

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

TWO Ayodhya residents on Friday moved a revision petition in the Lucknow bench of Allahabad High Court challenging the special CBI court's acquittal of all 32 accused persons, including former Deputy Prime Minister L K Advani, in the Babri Masjid demolition case.

The special CBI judge S K Yadav had delivered the order on September 30, 2020 — his last day in office. The plea states the trial court committed an error by not convicting the accused persons despite ample evidence against them. "The judge did not appreciate the evidence of conspiracy in the right perspective," the petitioners alleged.

The petition was filed by Haji Mahboob (74) and Sayyad Akhlaq Ahmad (81) on behalf of the All India Muslim Personal Law Board. The duo was also party to the Ayodhya title suit in the Supreme Court.

They urged the high court to summon the records from the trial court, hold all the 32 accused guilty and extend punishment to them by setting aside the CBI court order.

Other than Advani, the special CBI court had also exonerated Murli Manohar Joshi, Uma Bharati, Kalyan Singh, Vinay Katiyar, Sadhvi Ritambhara and Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh.

Representing the two petitioners, lawyer and convenor of Babri Masjid Action Committee Zafaryab Jilani said the revision petition was filed because the CBI did not file any appeal so far to challenge the verdict.

State Planning Board to get makeover with new name

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TAKING a cue from the constitution of the NITI Aayog by the Centre, the State Government on Friday decided to rename the Karnataka State Planning Board as the Karnataka State Policy and Planning Commission and also revamp it. The government is also working on merging different schemes with similar objectives for better implementation.

The first meeting of the board, chaired by Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, decided to rename the board and constitute advisory panels, set up five technical divisions and also appoint research officers to assist in its task that includes preparing policy documents and action plans for effective implementation of programmes.

The CM said the board will prepare a detailed report after consulting experts for effective implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG). The government is fully committed to implementing 17 of the goals by 2030, the CM said.

He also pointed out that the state is yet to achieve the desired level of progress as regards six of those goals — poverty alleviation, zero hunger, gender equality, industry, innovation and infrastructure, and sustainable cities and communities. With 66 out of 100 points, Karnataka is placed 6th in the country.

Planning Board Deputy Chairman B J Puttaswamy said they have decided to merge smaller schemes to reduce clutter in the system and ensure effective implementation of projects. Smaller schemes with similar objectives will be merged so that they can be better monitored.

While the number of schemes will be reduced, the number of beneficiaries or the funds allocated will not be cut, said Additional Chief Secretary Shalini Rajneesh.

Guv gives nod to BBMP Act, Mayor gets longer tenure

Law provides for zonal bodies which Bengalureans can approach instead of Palike head office to resolve grievances

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

FROM January 11, 2021 (Monday) citizens no longer need to approach the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) head office to get their grievances addressed, and can visit their respective zonal council chairmen instead of the Mayor.

The relief comes as Governor Vajubhai Vala gave his nod to the new BBMP Act, which comes into effect from January 11. The order, signed by the Urban Development Department, was released by the State Government on Friday.

But some officials from the UDD and former corporators expressed their concern. UDD officials said, "A delimitation commission will start the exercise and wards will be redrawn accordingly. There is a demand to increase the extent of Bengaluru by 1km and if this has to be implemented, the governor's nod and delimitation revision are required again."

A former corporator said, "It is difficult for the government and the BBMP to implement the Act as the matter pertaining to Council elections is before the Supreme Court. The government has to decide what needs to be implemented and when."

Experts pointed out that delimitation of wards should be done by the State Election Commission on the directions of the apex court and not BBMP. Soon, the National Census 2021 will start and delimitation of wards will have to be done again based on population figures. The amendment to the KMC Act, which was passed during the recent legislature session, that allows an increase in the number of wards from 198 to 243 and draft list of wards will be futile.

"A close observation of the past and upcoming events only shows that the government is working in all directions to delay the Council elections which is a violation of the 74th Amendment of the Constitution," a BBMP official said.

Srinivas Alavilli from Janaagraaha said some of the changes the new Act brings include increased tenure and power for the Mayor and an increase in the number of ward committee members to 20. With smaller wards (geographically) and more ward committee members, there can be better local management if properly implemented, he added.

With zonal level BBMP administration bodies being set up, people will have another local elected representative to approach, instead of going to the head office for everything. This is will benefit those living on the outskirts of Bengaluru, he said. BBMP Commissioner N Manjunatha Prasad said they will prioritise the changes and implement them.

South B'luru cheers as Metro chugs along Kanakapura Road

YELAHANKA-MAKALIDURGA TRAIN SPEED TRIALS DONE

The Commissioner of Railway Safety (CRS), Southern Circle, Abhai Kumar Rai, completed inspection of the newly electrified 34-km railway line between Yelahanka and Makalidurga section of Bengaluru Railway Division on Friday. "Trains were run at a maximum speed of 132 kmph," according to Divisional Railway Manager A K Verma, who was present. The Glass Water Challenge – a test in which a glass is filled to the brim with water and placed in the coach at the end of the train and to assess if there is spillage) was done successfully, he added. The speed trials were done on Friday while the statutory inspection was done on Thursday.

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THERE is palpable excitement in thousands of homes from Yelachenahalli to the Silk Institute. They have been waiting for this day since December 2018, the first deadline for Reach-4B. After many missed deadlines, citizens of South Bengaluru can now board the first Metro of Phase-II, when it opens on January 15.

Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) announced that Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa would launch it on January 14 at Konanakunte Cross Station, and Union Urban Affairs Minister Hardeep Singh Puri would do it virtually. Five stations – Konanakunte Cross, Doddakallasandra, Vajrahalli, Thalaghattapura and Silk Institute – dot the 6.29-km elevated line.

A sea of apartments has mushroomed along the route, including Mantri Tranquil, Gokulam, Shobha Forest View, Prestige Lakeridge, Mantri Serenity and Nitish Estates. Students from KS Institute of Technology and Dayananda Sagar University and other educational institutes will also benefit.

A Bhanu, chief technical officer at ICAR-Indian Institute of Horticultural Research based in Hesaraghatta, told TNIE, "This Metro line seems to be put in place only for my sake. It takes me just five minutes to walk from my flat in Prestige Falcon City to Konanakunte Cross Station. Similarly, for residents of other apartments. My office is in Nagasandra, near the end of the Green Line."

Bhanu used to park his car at Yelachenahalli and take the Metro. "From January 15, I will walk to the station. I bought this house only because the Metro line extension was announced," Bhanu said.

President of 'Changemakers of Kanakapura Road' Abdul Aleem said, "We are an umbrella of 60-plus Resident Welfare Associations in and around Kanakapura Road, comprising around 30,000 residents. We are also waiting eagerly."

The Association was instrumental in urging BMRCL to build footpaths along the entire stretch of this line. "We did a survey with Metro officials on road development and footpath work. They gave us a written assurance that all works would be completed by January-end."

Senior scientist at Karnataka State Research and Development Institute at Thalaghattapura, N R Prasad said real estate has boomed since news that the Metro line would be extended. "The value of our homes and rentals have soared. Covid created a temporary slump but after the pandemic, we will reap the benefits. Kanakapura Road is among the most choked roads during peak hours. It's a relief to use the Metro."

Assistant director at Cognizant Shashikanth Harinarayana said work from home is the norm for most IT employees like him. "Post-Covid, it doesn't look like I will be taking the Metro to work, but it will help me enormously in my personal trips."

Bengaluru company wins Metro contract

Salasar Adorus Infra LLP, a subsidiary of Bengaluru-based Engineering and Infrastructure firm Salasar Techno Engineering Limited, has bagged a Rs 252 crore contract for the installation of ballastless railway tracks of 175km length for the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited. The project has a deadline of 2.5-3 years.

Over 25 lakh to participate in National Horticulture Fair in February

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

IF one thought that Covid-19 would be a setback to organising fairs and melas, think again. The National Horticulture Fair-2021 to be held between February 8-12, is likely to see over 25 lakh participants this year compared to 70,000 last year. Reason? The fair is being held physically and virtually, allowing more experts, citizens, farmers, and entrepreneurs to participate.

Speaking to media on the sidelines of the launch of the fair's website on Friday, Dr M R Dinesh, Director, ICAR- IIHR, said, 721 Kendriya Vigyan Kendras are joining the fair and each KVK has been asked to involve 150-200 farmers.

The aim of the fair is to bring new technology, open the area for discussion, share innovations and promote Atma Nirbhar Krishi.

"The highlight of the fair, as the theme suggests - Horticulture for Start-up and Stand up India - is to encourage youth entrepreneurs. Youth are moving towards horticulture today. We have the best of incubation facilities, on and off site incubation centres also. We have listed out facilities which youth can use. We are focusing on entrepreneurship and making youth independent. Steps are also being taken for more seed production and supply so that more farmers and youth can be reached nation wide," he said.

09th January : What was the universe like before it was created? That's an unanswerable question - but we still can't help asking it. Many ancient theories say that there was an ancient void – a great 'nothing'. Recently, a famous physicist told me that the world consisted just of 'quantum ripples'. But I don't think any of us knows what that means!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
If you are to broaden your support or extend your horizons over the coming months, you'd better start now. Try arousing emotional sympathy, but without in any way slipping into self-pity. Other people are hardly likely to support you if they don't think you're concerned about them.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
It's bound to be a little longer before you fully recover from last year's minor setbacks. In part, that's a tribute to the power of your memory. Today's lunar position offers travel as an escape route, but also advises you to check out the ethical implications: you want to do the right thing.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
The Sun and Mercury command you to stick to hard work today - and that's an order! Yet, other planets give completely contradictory advice, and if you're determined to enjoy yourself then you should aim for imaginative pursuits, not to mention those which could bring in extra cash.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
The art of compromise doesn't always come naturally, which is why you may now have a slight difficulty fitting in with others' plans. However, fit in you must. Also, be prepared to spend to support your romantic dreams. I don't mean that you should waste your cash, just utilise whatever is necessary.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The Sun and Jupiter combine to stimulate the extravagant regions of your horoscope. This is a wonderful aspect for those of you who imagine that money grows on trees. The rest of you, take care! If Mars and Neptune mean anything, then it's that you're likely to lose control. Don't!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
For once, you may surrender yourself to total enthusiasm and give yourself over wholeheartedly to a special venture. If there's a choice between over-committing yourself or going without, you may go for the first option. You can sort out the details later.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
One way or another, you'll soon have to put the collective good before private interest. It's a fine time for everyone who is working to make the world a better place, or is otherwise dabbling in a charitable enterprise. Your reputation for honesty will do you good in the long run.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
It's an ideal day for traditional occupations, perhaps because the future seems to be so dangerous. It's also a deeply significant moment for family relationships, with indications that things may never be quite the same again. Make sure that they're better!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
There'll be a minor clash of interests between home and work, or private ties and public ambitions. In actual fact, any difficulties may be in your imagination. You may continue to juggle all your commitments and keep all balls in the air at the same time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Family members are certainly going to be stuck fast unless they turn to you for help, advice and assistance. But then they may have trouble pinning you down. By all accounts your solar chart is in a peculiarly restless, adventurous and imaginative phase.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You may as well forget your responsibilities and have fun - but only if you have a team of servants and staff to make sure that practical matters are well taken care of. As you can see, it's a complicated moment! No matter what your individual predilections, don't let others hold you back without good cause.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You're very free with your ideas, but not always with your feelings or plans. Partners who imagine you're being very straightforward and open may therefore be profoundly mistaken! At the very least you should make a point of being honest with yourself.

SECOND DRY RUN CONCLUDES, INTERNET LINK STILL AN ISSUE

CoWIN issues throw spanner in the works; eight sites in each BBMP zone covered

RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

THE second vaccine dry run at eight sites in Bengaluru — one in each BBMP zone — went smoothly, barring issues in network connectivity and technical problems with the CoWIN portal.

Health officials on ground suggested that WiFi or broadband connection be put up even in primary health centres as the Co-WIN portal was crucial for the immunisation programme.

A health official at the Singasandra Urban Primary Health Centre in Bommanahalli, said, "Mobile internet is needed to upload data on the portal, to register and generate an OTP. Sometimes there are network issues which is why Wifi or broadband connections would be useful."

He said vaccinators need to have more capacity building, to deal with cases of Adverse Event Following Immunization (AEFI).

"More rigorous training is required to handle any issues post vaccination. To assuage the fears and apprehension of the public, a counsellor can also be present to speak to beneficiaries during registration and prior to vaccination," he said.

At Kengeri Community Health Centre in RR Nagar zone, the dry run took two-and-a-half hours for 25 beneficiaries.

"There were issues with the CoWIN portal. It would not open when we had to update that the beneficiary's identity has been verified and vaccination completed. This is a problem with the portal itself and not a network issue. In the case of AEFI, we have tagged a list of hospitals nearby who can handle extreme cases requiring more medical attention," he said.

A health officer who oversaw the dry run at KR Puram General Hospital said the drive went by smoothly and took four hours. All facilities and staff were present.

"Once the person received the mock dose, it is marked as partially vaccinated on the portal and once they take the second dose after 28 days, it will be marked as total vaccination. Beneficiaries were made to wait in the observation room for half an hour after the vaccination," he said.

Aster CMI Hospital in Yelahanka zone, which was also part of the dry run, had arranged for a crash cart with emergency medications and oxygen support. "We also provided support from the ER department including specialties such as pulmonology and cardiology that were available from 9-11am. The mock dry run has helped us streamline the process. As it was a dry run, the CoWIN portal was not functional today. However, it will be active on the day of the actual drive as per the PHC doctor," said Dr Swati Rajagopal, consultant for infectious disease and travel medicine at Aster CMI Hospital.

TEAM TNIE

THE second dry run of the Covid-19 vaccine was held in 263 centres across the state on Friday, as part of a countrywide exercise. While the Centre has not yet fixed the date for the vaccine rollout, Karnataka has got its cold chain system up and running, with infrastructure and staff to vaccinate people.

Mock drill without a hitch

In Chikkamagaluru, the trial was held at six centres: District hospital in Mudigere, Ajjampura, Hulikere, Kadur, and Holy Cross. Chikkamagaluru Additional Deputy Commissioner Dr Kumar said that 10,000 health staffers, including Asha workers, registered for the vaccine. They will receive details of time and venue of the shot on their mobiles.

Private hospitals Subbaiah Medical College and Hospital and Sarji Hospital were part of the dry run in Shivamogga district, besides government hospitals in Bhadravathi, Sagar, Thirthahalli and Sorab, community health centre in Holalur, PHC in Agumbe, and urban health centre in Tunga Nagar in Shivamogga. The vaccine would be administered to 22,300 health staff in the first phase.

A mock drill was held in six centres in Davanagere district -- Chigateri District Hospital, General Hospital, Honnali, CHC in Santhebennur, UHC in Basha Nagar, PHC in Kondajji, Harihar and SSIMS in Davanagere. As many as 17,500 people will be vaccinated in the first phase.

Pvt hospitals part of trial

Mysuru: Authorities carried out the dry run in eight locations -- PHCs in Kumbarakoppal, Kadakola, CHC at Muguru, maternity hospital at Nanjangud, district hospital in Metagalli and KR Hospital and at JSS and Apollo BGS Hospitals.

DC Rohini Sindhuri inspected the dry runs at the two private hospitals. She said 33,009 workers registered to get the shot -- 162 facilities including government hospitals, UHCs, PHCs, CHCs, and 28 private hospitals will administer the vaccine.

The dry run was held in Chamarajanagar District Hospital, JSS Hospital, Gundlupet Taluk hospital and PHC at Rampura. In Mandya, DC Venkatesh inspected the dry run exercise at Mandya Institute of Medical Science.

Six health centres in Kodagu district -- PHC in Kakotuparambu, Kushalnagar Community Hospital, Somwarpet Community Hospital, Virajpet Dental College and Madikeri PHC -- carried out the dry run. DC Annies K Joy monitored the dry run in Madikeri District Hospital and 6,344 health workers were first in line for the vaccine.

No problems, say officials

Kalaburagi: The exercise was held at MR Medical College, UHC in Shivajinagar in Kalaburagi, Sedam Taluk Hospital, Ratkal and Hebbal Rural PHCs. DHO Dr Rajashekar Male said 25 beneficiaries got the jab in each vaccination centre. The dry run was successful in all six places and officials did not face any problem. Dry runs were also held in Raichur, Yadgir and Bidar districts.

The mock drill was held in 14 places in Bagalkot and Vijayapura. Health officials sent text messages to 25 beneficiaries chosen from the health department, informing them of the time and venue of the shot. Bagalkot DHO Dr Ananth Desai said, "We kickstarted the dry run at seven health facilities in four taluks around 10am, and it went off smoothly. The public was not involved."

Vijayapura Deputy Commissioner P Sunil Kumar said that health workers were trained the previous day. "We administered dummy shots to all participants," he said.

The drive was held in Bagalkot, Badami, Hungund and Ilkal taluks of Bagalkot and Basavana Bagewadi, Vijayapura and Nidagundi taluks of Vijayapura.

Officials suggest WiFi for PHCs

UDUPI Deputy Commissioner G Jagadish said the challenges were noted down during the dry run and the real vaccination drive will be made foolproof.

In Bengaluru too, some such cases came to light, but network connectivity too posed a probem for the CoWIN portal. Health officials suggested that Wifi or broadband connections be set up even at primary health centres to upload the data on the CoWIN portal, and to register and generate OTP.

"The dry run in Karnataka went off well, but in a few places, there were network issues. This was mainly seen with the CoWIN software in the morning, which we set right later. Last time, the dry run was only in five districts, but this time it took place in all the districts across all kinds of facilities including private hospitals," said Arundhati Chandrashekar, Managing Director, National Health Mission.

Health officials said that during the actual vaccination, some may get slight allergic reactions, common in all types of vaccination, and assured that people should not worry as they have put in place adequate assessment and treatment mechanisms.

BJP MLCs quit House panel probing ruckus

Committee chief rejects Vishwanath's letter

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

TWO BJP MLCs have resigned from a five-member committee set up by the Legislative Council Chairman Prathapchandra Shetty to inquire into unruly scenes on the floor of the Council on December 15.

While BJP MLC A H Vishwanath submitted his resignation to the House committee on Friday, the other party member S V Sankhanur said he had emailed his resignation letter. In the evening, Vishwanath received a response from MLC Marithibbe Gowda. who is the leader of the committee, saying that there is no provision under the law for a member to resign from the committee. It remains to be seen how BJP MLCs will respond to this. With both the members resigning, the committee will have no representation from the saffron party.

Apart from the two BJP MLCs, the Shetty-constituted committee has Congress members B K Hariprasad and R B Thimmapur and JDs MLC Marithibbe Gowda, who headed the committee.

After resigning, Vishwanath said, "A House committee should be appointed in consonance with rules and after taking leaders of the parties in the House into confidence. But these norms were not followed."

A senior House member, requesting anonymity, said that in any five-member committee, the quorum is three and even if two members resign the panel can continue.

But BJP MLC Ayanur Manjunath said, "If the chairman is concerned about fairness, he has to ask the BJP to replace the two MLCs who have resigned with two other members from the party."

The resignations come a day after Ayanur Manjunath wrote to Prathapchandra Shetty, challenging the appointment of the committee and asking it to be cancelled. He also questioned the chairman's fairness in appointing members to the committee.

He pointed out that the House committee cannot be constituted suo motu and the House's consent has to be taken. Quoting from the rules and traditions of the House, he said that leader of BJP in the House Kota Srinivas Poojary or party chief whip Mahantesh Kavatimath should have been consulted and the names for the committee members taken from them. He questioned the constitution of the committee and selection of members.

The next meeting of the panel is scheduled after 20 days.

State Govt staffers threaten Vidhana Soudha bandh

ASHWINI M SRIPAD
@Bengaluru

PROTESTING against the new Karnataka State Civil Services (Conduct) Rules, 2021 and cancellation of the provision to encash their earned leaves, employees of the State Secretariat on Friday threatened to stop the movement of files across departments and to call for a Vidhana Soudha bandh over the next few weeks. On January 12, they will wear black badges as a mark of protest.

The State Government, through a notification on Thursday, barred state government employees from publishing books, participating in radio shows, acting in films, television serials and contributing articles or writing letters to newspapers without a prior approval from the government.

We are not against government punishing employees for violating rules and shirking work, but the latest order harks back to an era where employees would stand before their employers with folded hands

Guruswamy, president, Karnataka State Secretariat Employees' Association

Guruswamy, president, Karnataka State Secretariat Employees' Association, told TNIE that the new rules are against freedom of expression. Guruswamy said that the employees accepted the suggestion of the government when it decided to cut a day's salary. "We did not get cash for earned leave in 2020, but we understood the financial situation of the state, as it was fighting the Covid pandemic and floods. But now that the government is earning better revenues and had reached 65 to 70 per cent of the target by December-end why should there be a cut of our encashed EL money," he asked.

He said that they appealed to the authorities to rescind the rules, but there was no positive response. "On January 12, we will also submit a memorandum to Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa and Chief Secretary P Ravikumar. If the government does not agree to our demands, we will call for the Vidhana Soudha bandh and stop the movement of files in the coming weeks," he warned.

Cong men barred, BJP MLA wins DCC bank poll

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI
@Kalaburagi

IN a dramatic development, BJP MLA Rajakumar Patil Telkur of Sedam was on Friday elected as the president of Yadgir-Kalaburagi District Central Cooperative (DCC) Bank, while BJP leader Suresh Sajjan of Yadgir district as vice-president, despite Congress directors being in majority.

Telkur was nominated as an ex-officio director of the bank by the government on Wednesday and won the election two days later.

Congress leaders Somashekhar Gonaik, Goutam Patil and Bapu Gowda Patil, who are the directors, were disqualified by the Joint Director of Cooperative Societies and were not allowed to take part in the election. Though they were disqualified on November 25, they were informed about it only on Thursday evening.

While Telkur, Sajjan and Mankar secured nine votes each, Basavaraj Patil Annarao Patil of Congress, who contested for the president's post, and Sidram Patil, who was running for the V-P's post, secured four votes each. It is said that two directors of Congress voted in favour of BJP candidates.

Telkur denied that he and the others got elected using unfair means. On the three directors belonging to Congress being disqualified, he said, "It has nothing to do with the elections held on Friday. The joint registrar and the disqualified directors have to answer as to why they were disqualified."

BJP leader Shivanand Mankar was elected as the representative of the bank to the APEX Bank.

Telkur, who is also chairman of NEKSRTC, said that all the MLAs from Kalaburagi district had urged Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, during a meeting with him a few days ago, to release Rs 500 crore to revive the DCC Bank. All the BJP MLAs of the district will meet the CM again and request for the grant, he added.

FUTURE PLANS

Board to place more emphasis on skill development

THE senior IAS officer said nearly 50 per cent of 1,800 schemes in the state have less than Rs 10 crore annual allocation and around 300 schemes have less than Rs 1 crore allocation.

After discussing with all the departments, schemes with the same objectives, but under different names, will be merged to ensure better outcomes, Additional Chief Secretary Shalini Rajneeshsaid. For this, some changes will be made in the budget, she added.

During the meeting, the board also decided that all projects with allocation of Rs 100 crore or more will be subjected to evaluation.

More emphasis will be given to skill development by roping in the Federation of Karnataka Chamber of Commerce and Industries (FKCCI) and Karnataka Small Scale Industries Association (KASSIA) and preparing a report on reviving small-scale industries.

A proposal to set up an irrigation commission, taking up infrastructure development on PPP model and water conservation were also discussed.

Pandemic impact on state economy

The Additional Chief Secretary said a mid-term assessment of the Covid-19 pandemic's impact has been done and the report will be released soon.

"Overall, there is a decline (in growth) at both the central and state level. The report will be released soon," she added.

DKS: Cong turning into cadre-based party

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

PANCHAYAT and ward level committees in the Congress will be formed within a month, State Congress president DK Shivakumar said here on Friday.

"We need to appoint booth-level agents and constitute committees at panchayat and ward levels within a month. The committees will have people from all castes and communities. We are asking our leaders to work towards converting Congress from a mass-based party to a cadre-based party," Shivakumar told reporters after the party's Sankalpa Samaavesha in Bengaluru.

DK Shivakumar, KPCC president

Accusing the government of withholding programmes started when the Congress was in power in the state, Shivakumar said they are fighting for implementation of such programmes.

Shivakumar plans to visit 150 assembly segments this year, along with Opposition leader Siddaramaiah and other senior leaders, to take up issues faced by the people. "Our struggle is not limited to only fighting zilla panchayat and taluk panchayat elections, but to oust BJP from power in the state and at the Centre," he said.

The special packages announced by the government to help those hit by the Covid-induced lockdown has not reached people, the government has not released funds to contractors and if this is not enough, has increased taxes, he said, adding that the CM should take moral responsibility after court orders in the land denotification cases.

Shivakumar said that as president of the state unit, he will not support or oppose any candidate in the Youth Congress elections.

Rahul Gandhi has decided that the party should conduct elections to encourage grassroots leaders and state leaders fully support it, he added.

JDS PACIFIES G T DEVEGOWDA, OFFERS TICKET TO SON

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

A DAY after disgruntled JDS veteran G T Devegowda dared the party to expel him, former minister Sa Ra Mahesh said the MLA would lead the party in Mysuru region, and that his son Harish will contest on a party ticket in the assembly election.

Devegowda is our leader, Mahesh declared before the media here. He said that both father and son would remain in the party and Harish would be given the ticket from Hunsur or Chamaraja constituency.

Maintaining that there are always differences within the party, he said there is no doubt party leaders will bury them before elections and put up a united fight. Issues will be settled through dialogue, he added.

Clarifying that neither former chief minister H D Kumaraswamy nor he himself had said they would expel Devegowda from the party, Mahesh said the veteran leader is a strong force who had defeated sitting Chief Minister Siddaramaiah. "Why will we expel him from the party?" he asked.

However, he said the party will act tough on those JDS workers who had helped the Congress and BJP.

Refusing to comment on Devegowda's charges that the JDS has a high command in Mysuru, he said that Devegowda is in close touch with party leaders H D Deve Gowda, Anita Kumaraswamy and youth leader Nikhil Kumaraswamy, and has some political differences with others.

To a question, Mahesh said he will remain in the JDS and contest from KR Nagar. Candidates in other constituencies have already started field work, he said.

NRN goes back to school after six decades

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Tumakuru

AFTER a gap of six decades, a star alumnus will reconnect with his alma mater in Madhugiri in Tumakuru district on Saturday, and gift equipment which will benefit thousands of children. IT behemoth Infosys mentor N R Narayana Murthy, who studied in Class 8 and 9 here back in 1958-59, will virtually launch 'Doora Taranga Shikshana' for SSLC students and 'Koushalya Naipunya' for ITI.

The schemes are conceptualised by Swami Sri Japanananda of Ramakrishna Sevashrama of Pavagada, and sponsored by Infosys Foundation for the benefit of students of Madhugiri educational district, comprising Koratagere, Pavagada and Sira taluks.

The select 20 schools include Murthy's government high school in Madhugiri town. Murthy has deep links with the school, where his father N R Rama Rao was headmaster. Each of the schools will get a projector, digital screen, laptop, besides UPS, in the first phase.

"Not only SSLC students, Class VIII and IX students will also get an opportunity to learn through digital teaching, and over 10,000 of them will benefit. Instead of learning on small-screen cellphones, learning from a big digital screen is good for the children's eyes as well," the seer told TNIE.

He thanked Infosys Foundation chairperson Sudha Murty for supporting the pro-poor schemes he has conceptualised.

'Samarpan', a team of volunteers from Infosys, include Jagadish Purohit, software engineers Ashutosh Gupta and Deepti Gupta, and project coordinator B Mahesh, have joined hands to train children. Digital learning will give an edge to students of backward areas, especially during the pandemic, observed Narayan of Matrix Technologies.

Murthy (74), who is Chairman Emeritus of Infosys, will address educators and students at noon at a function to be presided over by Primary and Secondary Education Minister S Suresh Kumar.

Former MLC Padma Shri Doddarange Gowda is waiting impatiently to participate in the programme. He has the unique distinction of being Murthy's benchmate in high school.

Offline classes for first and second-year students of degree, postgraduation, diploma and engineering students will start after the festival of Sankranti on January 14.

Actor Radhika Kumaraswamy (centre) arrives at the CCB office for questioning in Bengaluru on Friday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

A DAY after she was summoned by the Central Crime Branch for questioning, Kannada actor Radhika Kumaraswamy on Friday appeared before the investigating officer over allegations of receiving Rs 15 lakh from a conman, Yuvaraj Swamy.

H M Nagaraj, Assistant Commissioner of Police from the CCB told TNIE that Radika was interrogated for about two hours, during which she shared some details regarding money transactions made by Yuvaraj. She claimed that the money was remuneration for an upcoming movie and there was nothing illegal in it. "We may summon her again if required for the investigation. Her statement has been recorded and it is too early to reveal any more details about the interrogation," he said.

Sources said that the CCB may verify phone call records of Radika. According to CCB sources, Radhika was in Madikeri when summoned, and she arrived for questioning at 11 am. Radhika said that she was acquainted with Yuvaraj for the last 17 years, as he was her father's friend and was the family's astrologer. She spoke to reporters after coming out of the CCB office, claiming that she does not hide anything and everything is transparent. She stated that she would cooperate with the investigation if the CCB summoned her again.

On Wednesday, the CCB had questioned Raviraj, brother of Radhika, for his alleged financial links to Swamy, and later Radhika spoke to reporters and claimed that the money was payment she received to act in an upcoming movie.

Meanwhile, Yuvaraj Swamy (52) is a resident of Nagarabhavi, and claims to be an astrologer and vaastu expert.

He was arrested by the CCB on December 16.

Police arrest 4 for smuggling sandalwood

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

RR Nagar police on Thursday arrested a gang of four for smuggling sandalwood. The accused were carrying sandalwood pieces worth Rs 10 lakh, and they had also stolen two trees and 178 kg of the precious wood, which have all been seized.

The accused are identified as Rajesh (23), Lokesh (28), Govindaraju (43) and Ravi MS (32) -- all residents of Channapatna. "We have clues about the person who was supposed to receive the sandalwood, and efforts are on to nab him," police said.

The gang was caught along with three hacksaws, an axe, a machete, and two bikes used in the crime. They had cut down two trees from Kala Farm on Kengeri-Uttarahalli Main Road on the night of September 11.

The farm's owner, Dr Ravi Prakash, had filed a police complaint.

State can't levy fee for transporting building stone materials: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court struck down Rule 42 (7) of the Karnataka Minor Mineral Concession Rules, 1994, as unconstitutional and ultra vires the Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act, as the State Government has no legislative competence to make rules for levying transportation fee or charge on minerals lawfully excavated in other states.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty struck down the Rule by allowing the petitions filed by Sri Sai Keshava Enterprises and 37 others from Tamil Nadu, and Karnataka Tipper Lorry Owners' Association and seven others from Bengaluru. Some of the petitioners are in the business of stone crushing and manufacture of M-sand in Krishnagiri district of Tamil Nadu.

IN THE HC

It has come as a big relief to persons who transport processed building stone materials, like aggregates, size stone, boulders and M-sand, from other states with valid permits to Karnataka.

The State Government inserted the Rule through an amendment notified in the Special Gazette, dated June 30, 2020.

According to Rule 42(7), Rs 70 per metric tonne should be collected from those transporting processed building stone materials from other states.

The State Government contended that the amount was being levied to recover the expenses of setting up of checkposts to prevent illegal transportation. The petitioners argued that the State Government has checkposts since 1994 to control unauthorised transportation and quarrying.

Ensure visually impaired students get talking laptops: HC

BENGALURU: Noting that there should be a proper mechanism to inform Class 10 and pre-university college students about the scheme of distributing talking laptops, the Karnataka High Court on Friday asked the government to come out with a mechanism ensuring that talking laptops for the eligible visually impaired students are distributed as per the scheme launched in 2014. A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order after hearing a PIL by advocate S Umapathi. He contended the scheme was not properly implemented as the laptops were not distributed in 2018-19 and 2019-20 despite budgetary funds.

LAND DISPUTE CASE

Revenue inspector, constable arrested for taking bribe

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

ANTI-Corruption Bureau (ACB) sleuths on Thursday arrested a revenue inspector and a head constable red-handed, while they were accepting a bribe from a landowner to settle a land dispute. Police Inspector Yeshwanth of Chikkajala police station, who also allegedly took bribes, is absconding and a special team has been formed to trace him, ACB officials said.

The arrested Revenue Inspector, H Putta Hanumaiah alias Praveen, is attached to Jala Hobli in North Taluk, while the head constable, Raju, is with Chikkajala police station.

ACB sleuths said that they received a complaint from the landowner that he had purchased five acres of land in Shettigere village in Jala Hobli from Syed Baba Jaan in 2018. He had agreed to pay Rs 2.8 crore and had given Rs 15 lakh in two instalments as advance. But later, Jaan had another sale agreement executed with another person. The complainant approached the court for an injunction order, which was granted. He then filed an application at the tahsildar's office to get land registration documents – podi, mutation and pouthi khata. To give these documents, Hanumaiah allegedly demanded Rs 50 lakh bribe. The landowner, meanwhile, also met Yeshwanth and Raju to seek protection to put up a board on the land.

Raju negotiated for a Rs 10 lakh bribe. The landowner handed over Rs 4 lakh to Yeshwant, and before giving the rest, he approached ACB. The sleuths laid a trap and as the landowner was handing over the money near the police station, they caught Raju. Yeshwanth, however, escaped. Hanumaiah was arrested for accepting Rs 5 lakh bribe near Seshadripuram.

A senior police officer said, "We are waiting for an ACB report to take action against Yeshwanth."

DONATIONS TO TTD TRUST CROSS ₹100 CROREMARK

B MURALI @ Tirumala

DONATIONS to the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) through SRIVANI Trust (Sri Venkateswara Alaya Nirmana Trust) have crossed ₹100 crore with more than ₹10 crore pouring in during the 10-day Vaikunta Dwara Darshan at Tirumala temple.

Speaking to TNIE, TTD Additional Executive Officer AV Dharma Reddy said that the TTD Trust Board's decision to allow Vaikunta Dwara Darshan for 10 days instead of two days and sale of tickets under the SRIVANI Trust scheme, enabled 13,000 devotees to have darshan. On an average, 1,000 tickets were sold to SRIVANI Trust donors a day during Vaikunta Dwara Darshan. "By January 1st itself, the donations through SRIVANI Trust crossed the ₹100-crore mark," he said.

SRIVANI Trust was established with an objective to construct and maintain Venkateswara temples across the country, more so in places where the weaker section population is high. It is also aimed at propagating Sanatana Hindu Dharma. The objectives of the trust include renovation and preservation of ancient temple structures, which reflect the glory of Indian culture and tradition. Devotees who donate to the TTD through SRIVANI Trust get privilege to avail of VIP Darshan at Tirumala temple. The VIP Darshan provision was made on November 4,2019 though SRIVANI Trust was floated a few months before that. The SRIVANI Trust scheme evoked a good response from devotees. Venkateswara temple was closed for nearly three months due to the Covid-19 pandemic last year. Though the TTD resumed darshan in the second week of June, privilege darshan for donors was allowed only from August.

Kerala Guv's policy address against farm laws, probes

Says national agencies impeding development activities in state

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ T'Puram

GOVERNOR Arif Mohammed Khan's policy address on the first day of the 22nd session of the 14th Legislative Assembly contained several references criticising the Union government, notable among them being the charge that central agencies were overstepping their constitutional brief and hampering development in the state.

"Actions of certain Central government agencies have overstepped the constitutional contours and are impeding the development activities and flagship programmes being undertaken by the state," Khan said.

This was seen as an indirect reference to the probe by the CBI and other central agencies against the state's ambitious projects such as Life Mission. The governor said actions of the central agencies have had a demoralising effect on honest and hardworking officers.

The farm laws enacted recently by Parliament also came in for criticism. Khan said a spate of central laws have been noted for their encroachment on the states' rights.

"The agrarian laws will undermine regulated markets, result in eventual demise of minimum support price and tilt the balance of bargaining power definitively in favour of corporate middlemen," he said. The references come days after the state legislature passed a unanimous resolution against the farm laws.

The Centre's withdrawal of import duty and regional trade agreements has proved calamitous for the state's commercial crops, the governor observed.

"Kerala has to be unitedly vigilant against any further regional trade agreements that undermine our agriculture and also persuade the Centre to provide at least partial support to our rubber growers," he said.

The governor also said the Union government's response to the economic collapse due to Covid pandemic was inadequate in terms of its expenditure for relief and healthcare. The Centre's increase of special excise duty on petroleum products has led to the fuel price rise and inflation, the governor said. "The special excise duties which are being hiked continuously do not form part of the divisible pool of taxes shareable with the states," the governor said.

The policy address also reminded that when apprehensions were raised regarding the consequences of the CAA, the state took the lead in alleviating fears among large sections of society. The governor's remarks offered a reminder of the state assembly passing a resolution against CAA in 2019.

K'taka colleges to open after Sankranti

Exams in April-May

The minister said that exams for II-PU students will be conducted in the second week of May, and the timetable for higher education will be framed keeping this in consideration. He said most of the vice-chancellors have expressed that it is better to conduct examinations offline. The government will consider this suggestion seriously, he said. As per UGC norms, exams for the final year are to be completed in March, but several universities have not completed the syllabus. So the government is mulling holding examinations in April or May, he said.

OFFLINE classes for first and second-year students of degree, postgraduation, diploma and engineering students will start after the festival of Sankranti on January 14. Deputy Chief Minister C N Ashwath Narayan on Friday said that he has asked vice-chancellors to submit a report, following which the reopening dates will be announced.

He informed this after convening a video conference with vice-chancellors of government and private universities, senior officials of several departments, including higher education.

All vice-chancellors who attended the meeting suggested that the government should start offline classes. "A specific date to start classes will be decided after submission of the report by the vice-chancellors," he clarified.

The minister said that offline classes for final-year students have already started and are running successfully. "Taking this success into account, it has been decided to open schools for the remaining classes too. All measures will be taken as per UGC and Covid guidelines," the minister emphasised.

Decision on bus passes, hostels

Narayan said the confusion over students' bus pass issue will be cleared soon after discussions with Transport Minister Laxman Savadi. "It will be finalised whether students can use their old passes. Hostel facilities will be provided for students of SC/ST communities after classes begin and the social welfare department has responded positively to this," the minister informed.

Netizens flay Kochi native's Tricolour act at Capitol seige

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

A Kochi native is the talk of the town after he was seen with an Indian flag among the Donald Trumpsupporters who stormed the United States Capitol in Washington DC expressing solidarity with Trump's presidency.

Thykoodam resident Vinson Xavier Palathingal, who is a US citizen, became a sensation after a video of him with the Indian tricolour at Capitol amid protesters went viral on social media. However, his act has come under severe criticism from various corners with many taking to social media to condemn him for carrying the Indian flag on such an occasion. Though Vinson wrote a post on Facebook explaining why he was at the spot, it was later found deleted. A Malayalam news channel quoted him as saying that "he had gone to the Capitol to protest against 'election fraud' and 'not for violence', Like any other ardent Trump follower, Vinson also believed that extensive voting fraud had taken place in the 2020 presidential election in which Democrat Joe Biden won.

He wrote on Twitter, "American patriots – Vietnamese, Indian, Korean and Iranian origins, and from so many other nations and races – who believe massive voter fraud has happened joined the rally yesterday in solidarity with Trump. Peaceful protesters who were exercising our rights."

Reports also quoted his FB post, "About 50 or so lawless people who breached the US Capitol perimeter by climbing the walls, breaking the windows and attacking police is not a reason to throw the million-plus peaceful protestors under the bus. I consider President Donald Trump as a tool afforded to American patriots by him, to start cleaning up fraud prone system in many states."

OUTRAGE AS WOMAN RAPED AT TN TEMPLE

ANTONY FERNANDO
@ Nagapattinam

A 40-year-old woman was allegedly gang-raped by two men at a temple near Nagapattinam on Wednesday night, sparking outrage in the region. The suspects were arrested late on Thursday and are being questioned. The woman, sources say, is a daily-wage labourer from Vedaranyam, and her husband died two years ago.

She moved to Nagapattinam with her two daughters following the Gaja Cyclone, in search of a livelihood. She was staying in a rented home at Velipalayam, and was working as a construction labourer. The men who attacked her, M Arulraj (25), from Vanipettai Theru and K Anand (24) from Akkaraikulam, had reportedly been harassing and cat-calling her for a while.

"She knew the suspects as they are from the same locality. They had been troubling her for some time," Nagapattinam Superintendent of Police Om Prakash Meena. As she started feeling intimidated, she decided not to stay alone at nights and had been going to her sister's house in the same area with her daughters to sleep for the past few days.

On Wednesday night, while she was on her way to her sister's house, the duo abducted her and took her to a temple. "It was around 9pm. They blocked her on the way, hit her, tied her up, and took her away. The woman tried to strike a bargain by giving her earrings to the criminals, so that they would let her go. But they sexually assaulted her, and kept her confined for about five hours," said police sources.

She is under treatment at the Nagapattinam Government General Hospital. Following the incident, the duo allegedly threatened her and her sister's family not to report the matter to the police. However, she mustered the courage and went to the authorities, following which the duo was nabbed. "The woman's medical test is complete, confirming the sexual assaul. We have taken confessions from the accused. We will produce them before a magistrate for remanding to custody," said Velipalayam Inspector P Thiyagarajan.

Police detain students of University of Hyderabad as they protest against laying of a road for a gated community at the campus, in Hyderabad on Friday | R V KRAO

Tension erupts at varsity

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

TENSE moments were witnessed at the University of Hyderabad's (UoH) East campus on Friday when students tried to stop the district administration from laying a road across the premises allegedly for the convenience of a gated community. Police personnel, who were at the spot in strength, detained about 15 students.

In the morning, the district administration deployed five earthmovers to pave the way for laying the road, which began uprooting lush greenery, plants and trees in the East campus. The students swung into action and tried to stop this. As the clash turned intense, police detained them.

The students alleged that encroachers, backed by the Telangana government, broke the campus' compound wall near the Indian School of Business (ISB) to lay the road.

Four Mudhols set to join IAF soon

MAHESH M GOUDAR @ Bagalkot

MUDHOL hound is becoming popular with each passing day as it is all set to be inducted into Indian Air Force (IAF) in February.

Following a request from IAF officials from Uttar Pradesh, who approached Karnataka Veterinary, Animal and Fisheries Sciences University of Bidar seeking seven Mudhol puppies, the dogs are being bred at Canine Research and Information Centre (CRIC) of Thimmapur near Mudhol that comes under the purview of the varsity.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Dr Mahesh Akashi, head of CRIC said, "A couple of weeks ago, IAF officials wrote to us placing an order for seven puppies. However, we are providing them only four puppies this year — two male and two females — because of lack of availability at the breeding centre. Another three puppies will be supplied next year as per the agreement."

"The IAF personnel have also communicated that they will be collecting the dogs in the first week of February. At present there are 20 puppies in the breeding centre, and all of them have been booked by several agencies. We have also received orders for four puppies each from Assam Rifles and Assam Forest Department and the puppies will be handed over to them in the last week of January. Even the Karnataka State Police will also be inducting the Mudhol hound for the first time into its canine squad. We are providing one hound to Bagalkot district police on January 26," stated Akashi.

Even though the Mudhol hound was popular and was also successfully inducted into Indian Army and Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF), even before Prime Minister Narendra Modi made a mention in his Maan Ki Baat, many government institutions like BSF and Department of Forest came forward to induct them into their canine squads only after the prime minister applauded the skills of these desi hounds.

At present Mudhols can be seen serving in Indian Army, CRPF, BSF, Indo-Tibetan Border Police, Andhra Pradesh and Rajasthan Police Departments. There are a total of 40 Mudhol hounds, which are being used for breeding and research purpose, in CRIC. Apart from the state, Mudhol hounds are also in high demand at the coffee and tea estates of Tamil Nadu, Kerala and Assam.

CHALLENGES BEFORE SITHARAMAN TO BALANCE THE BOOKS

It's becoming finally and fatefully true. At 7.7%, India's estimated GDP growth contraction in FY21 is the sharpest since the 1950s. The first advance estimates released Thursday show almost every metric going downhill but for two—agriculture (on the supply side) and government consumption (on the demand side). Barring these, others like private consumption and investments, services sector, mining and manufacturing may all contract this fiscal. Nominal GDP loss during H1 was ₹13.1 lakh crore and for the full fiscal, it could be ₹8.6 lakh crore, implying a nominal gain in GDP of about ₹4.5 lakh crore in H2, as per SBI research. But experts aren't downbeat, as these estimates have the shortest shelf-life of a few weeks and are only used as an input for budget calculations. The CSO will release revised estimates for the last three years later this month, which changes the base for FY21 estimates.

With inflation remaining sticky, monetary policy appears nearly exhausted. Moveover, the RBI also needs to soak up excess liquidity, shifting the onus of supporting growth officially to fiscal policy. Hence Budget FY22 is the starting point of a revival and is of utmost significance. Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman has assured us about a never-before Budget, but it'll be interesting to see how she balances the books given the limited scope due to bleak tax collections. However, rising GST collections, customs and excise duties, and projected revenue from spectrum auctions and disinvestments make one hopeful of fiscal policy propping up the economy to pre-pandemic levels the next financial year.

But India's growth prospects are contingent on global factors and hence a word of caution. Although global economic activity is recovering, it's unlikely to return to business as usual for the foreseeable future, according to the World Bank. In its latest report, it wondered if we were heading into a decade of disappointment as the pandemic leaves long-lasting adverse effects on economic activity and per capita incomes, eventually dragging down global potential output.

TRS PLAYS THE JOB CARD TO DRAW YOUTH

Once bitten, twice shy, Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao is now doing a course correction to enlist the support of the youth whom he had ignored after riding to power in 2014 and then again in 2018. This is one of his topmost priorities before the Assembly polls in 2023. Till the day the TRS lost the Dubbaka by-election, KCR had no doubt about his party's prowess in winning any election. But then came the bypoll outcome in which the youth vote played a crucial role. The TRS leaders tried to convince themselves that the defeat was a mere blip but the results of the GHMC elections that followed made them realise their mistake.

The chief minister is now intent on assuaging the ruffled feelings of the estranged sections, mainly the youth. The Telangana movement, in fact, took birth with the promise of employment to all. As against a whopping 25 lakh educated unemployed, the state government has provided jobs to only a few thousands so far. To appease the youth, KCR is now busy filling 50,000 posts. He knows that without their support, he cannot wade through the muddy waters of electoral politics with the BJP bidding for power in the next elections.

There is already criticism that KCR is not serious about filling 50,000 jobs and that it is only a move to get the youth to support him in the upcoming elections to the municipal corporations of Warangal and Khammam, two MLC graduate constituencies and by-election to the Nagarjuna Sagar Assembly seat. KCR has the Presidential order on the zonal system in public employment amended but the posts are yet to be divided to fit the zones, which is a laborious process. The Telangana chief minister has already lost a lot of time. He has to hurry or the students and youth may queer the pitch to such an extent that he may not be able to repair it. Trust is easier to lose but difficult to build.

Instead of seeing obesity as a problem of excess calorie consumption, it is better understood as a measure of body fat and its patterns of distribution, with varying health effects

OBESITY IS ALSO A FORM OF MALNUTRITION

DR K SRINATH REDDY

Cardiologist, epidemiologist and President, PHFI

AMIT BANDRE

If all of humanity was fair and sensible, no one would be falling ill from a lack of nutritious food or consumption of unhealthy foods that results in obesity. However, we still see undernutrition, obesity and micronutrient deficiencies (hidden hunger) as the three faces of malnutrition.

The term overnutrition has been in vogue for describing overweight and obesity. It is a term carried over from times when the world of human nutrition focused mainly on adequacy of total calorie intake (energy) and not on nutrient quality. Instead of seeing obesity as a problem of excess calorie consumption, it is better understood as a measure of body fat and its patterns of distribution, with varying effects on health. Stunted children, who are the troubling picture of chronic undernutrition, have high levels of body fat and low levels of lean muscle mass, metabolically overlapping with those who are overweight and obese.

'Overweight' and 'obesity' are terms enmeshed in debates over criteria to be employed in different ethnic groups. Body mass index (BMI), a ratio of weight and height, is the conventional measure. It is expressed as weight in kilograms divided by a squared measure of height in metres. A BMI of less than 18 is labelled as underweight, between 18 to 25 as normal body weight, from 25 to 30 as overweight and over 30 as obese. These Western standards are still widely used for international comparisons. Overweight and obesity are associated with increasing health risk due to diabetes, heart attacks, stroke, cancer and many other diseases.

BMI, when used as an indicator of excess weight, is usually interpreted to be due to excess body fat (adipose tissue). It need not always be so, as a very muscular athlete can have a high BMI without high body adiposity. Even persons with high bone weight may be labelled as overweight without a high level of body fat. However, BMI has become the most commonly used measure for characterising overweight and obesity in individuals and populations, and a surrogate for undesirable levels of body fat.

Persons of Asian ethnicity, especially South Asians, have higher levels of body fat and associated metabolic risks at BMI levels lower than in Western populations. Recognising this, the WHO recommended lower public health and clinical thresholds for assessment of risk in Asians—a BMI of 23 for overweight and 27.5 for obesity.

The pattern of distribution of fat in the human body matters even more than total body fat or BMI. If fat is located more within the abdomen (not the abdominal wall), it carries greater danger. Fat distributed around the abdominal organs is associated with widespread inflammation in the body and also with a wide range of metabolic abnormalities in the composition and levels of blood fats, glucose and clotting mediators. About a third of the persons with diabetes in India have been reported to be thin, with central rather than general obesity. Early onset of hypertension, diabetes and heart disease in adulthood is a feature in India and other South Asian countries. No genetic marker of high predictive value has yet been found. Patterns of imbalanced nutrition from early childhood are more likely to be responsible.

Stunted children, who are the troubling picture of chronic undernutrition, have high body fat and low lean muscle mass, metabolically overlapping with the overweight and obese

Abdominal or central obesity has been conventionally measured by the ratio of the circumference of the waist to that of the hip. A high waist to hip ratio is usually associated with a male pattern of obesity ('apple' shape), while more fat around the hips is usually associated with a female pattern of obesity ('pear' shape). The former is metabolically dangerous and is associated with a wide variety of inflammatory and chronic degenerative diseases. The latter is safer as it is not associated with similar metabolic abnormalities or inflammatory responses in the body.

Even for the waist circumference and the waist to hip ratio, lower cut-offs have been recommended for Indians than used in Western populations, for better predicting the risk of cardiovascular disease and diabetes. Since hip measurement is often difficult, waist to height ratio has also emerged as a suitable surrogate measure of abdominal obesity. A waist to height ratio of over 0.5 in older children and adults provides a reasonable clue to the presence of central or abdominal obesity.

While early life influences seem to programme the body in the way it handles food intake in later life, our diet and physical activity patterns throughout will determine how that is expressed. A fibre-rich diet with fruit, vegetables and whole grain, and reducing sugar and refined carbohydrates while maintaining appropriate intake of protein and healthy fats will help us avoid all forms of obesity. Physical activity is essential and resistance exercises are helpful in curtailing abdominal fat. The body tends to retain the same number of fat cells (adipocytes) throughout life. Whether we let them bloat with fat or keep them trim is up to us. Policy measures that make healthy foods affordable, unhealthy foods costlier and physical activity easy to undertake in community spaces are also needed.

INFLATED OZ MUSEUM PURCHASE PRICES FUEL DEMAND FOR OUR IDOLS

S VIJAY KUMAR

Co-Founder, India Pride Project and Author of The Idol Thief

We have seen how the market for Indian antiquities is not just demand-driven but is actually a derived demand in previous articles in this series on illicit trade in sculptures. The demand for robbing and looting sacred sites is dependent on the demand for unprovenanced antiquities by the ultimate consumers, the museums. Here, we delve further into the Australian system, which, with its unregulated purchases, has been a major contributor to this demand. Strangely, this has not been picked up or covered by any of the due diligence or independent audits so far—surprising since the National Gallery of Australia (NGA) is government-funded.

It is pertinent to point out at the outset that the NGA due diligence report clearly says: "The attached documents include the steps taken at the time of purchase and any further information discovered following (dealer Subhash) Kapoor's arrest"; the Crennan report's terms of reference in context seem myopic: "The TOR for the Review (of the NGA's Asian Art Provenance Project) require an assessment of whether, on the basis of material provided, certain objects have 'a satisfactory provenance' and whether that material establishes when those objects 'left the country of origin'." But it doesn't comment on whether there is proof of legitimate export or even if the price paid is the market value (fair value).

Even the most basic exponents of audit and finance would know the accounting guidebook definition of ascertaining the fair value price. There are just two simple questions. 1) Is there an active and open market? and 2) Are there current market selling prices or recent transaction prices for similar assets?

Any purchaser of any object, let alone high-value idols and that too on government funding, would be expected to check at what prices similar objects were sold in recent years. The museum should have checked the "contemporary and historical art market for that type of object ... the price of the work of art relative to the established market."

Take the seated marble Jina purchased for $125,000 in December 2003 along with the marble arch (Mount Abu, Rajasthan). This is the provenance listed during purchase: "Bought in Delhi by Sudanese diplomat Abdullah Mehgoub between 1968 to 1971. ... The sculpture had recently been published (a paid advertisement by the arrested Kapoor's Art of the Past) in Arts of Asia, Volume 33. The Gallery sought expert advice from one of America's leading experts on Indian Art, Dr Vidya Dehejia, who endorsed its quality and authenticity." We have already seen how this provenance is dubious, that the same Sudanese diplomat's name was used in the stolen and now-restituted Sripuranthan Nataraja's provenance.

The NGA due diligence said new provenance information was found after Kapoor's arrest: "A comparable Jina was found in the sales catalog of Christie's sale number 9481 (18 October 2002). Close examination suggests the NGA Jina is the same object..."

The Crennan report blatantly errs on the date of auction. But the all-important detail is that the price the Jina fetched in that auction has not been mentioned along with the fact that there were no other comparable marble Jinas sold in the 24 months prior to the NGA acquisition. The Christie's was an open auction available on a simple Google search: the Jina was sold for just GBP 4,465. The NGA acquired the Jina and arch for $125,000 within a few months. While we do accept there is some ambiguity over the price due to the clubbing with the arch, let's see more examples of such financial impropriety.

An ivory crucified Christ (possibly Goa) was purchased for $337,500 by the NGA in February 2007. The NGA due diligence lists as documents received at the time of purchase, the "copy of the page of the catalog for the auction at which the sculpture was purchased". We now quote the Crennan report: "It was sold to Kapoor of Art of the Past in June 2006 at a Sotheby's auction styled 'The eclectic world of Edrie van Vredenburgh'." It was auctioned on 6 June 2006 for just GBP 21,600, once again a price increase of almost 100 times in a few months!

Were these irregularities only with purchases from Kapoor's Art of the Past? No. The Hoysala Saraswati (Karnataka) was purchased from the art dealership Carlton Rochell Ltd., New York, for approximately $650,000 but is surprisingly not covered in the Crennan report. The published provenance says Carlton Rochell purchased it at the Pierre Berge auction, which sold it to the NGA. Conveniently, the price is omitted, but again a simple Google search reveals it was sold for 130,000 Euros on 12 June 2010.

As we all know, the NGA restituted the stolen Sripuranthan Nataraja—purchased for $5 million, a price unheard of—but what is again not in public domain is how the deal was sweetened by a return gift for $323,000, albeit in a rather uncommon manner. The due diligence report mentions this in passing: "In addition to the works of art purchased from Kapoor, the American Friends of the National Gallery of Australia (AFANG) received a gift of 11 paintings and one chromolithograph from Kapoor's daughter Mamta Kapoor."

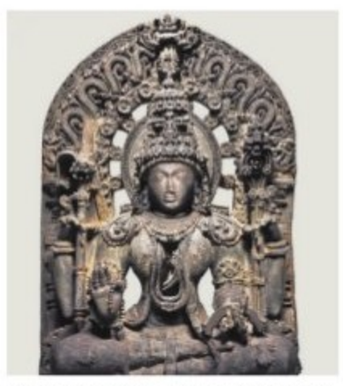
The NGA audit report of 2008-09 says AFANG "has recently enjoyed the generous support of donors such as Mamta Kapoor...", meaning the paintings were donated the same year of the monumental purchase of the Nataraja. AFANG is a charitable foundation in the US to enable taxpayers there to support the NGA and receive tax deductions there for such support. So did the Kapoors not donate the paintings directly to the NGA and routed it via AFANG to claim tax benefits?

The probe into the Art of the Past's activities by the US Homeland Security's "Operation Hidden Idol" has revealed an extensive collection of stolen paintings as well including some from prominent museums in India. Sadly India is just about working on the sculptures for now.

Lastly, a curveball, the case of the Pala Buddha. The Crennan report says "the object was given to the NGA in 1969 by the Indian government. Although not accompanied by any authorisation for export, it can be assumed to comply with any relevant legislation. The object was apparently selected by the then PM, Indira Gandhi, and was presented by the High Commissioner for India in Australia to the Interim Council of the NGA." Can the Indian government not check this? It is a pity that India has not been more diligent and forceful in seeking the return of clearly unprovenanced and stolen antiquities.

This is just the sampling of one museum's collection and critical analysis of their lackadaisical due diligence. Such wanton inflationary purchases that go unchecked even after such scandals are subject to audits are why the art market doesn't reform. Such purchases are not just a drain on the resources of a public-funded museum but directly result in inflating the benchmark pricing of similar antiquities in the global art market—thereby making the illicit trade more lucrative.

(vj.episteme@gmail.com)



(L) Christ crucified (possibly Goa); (R) Hoysala Saraswati (K'taka). Both were bought by Australia's NGA at inflated prices, thus making the illicit antiquities trade more lucrative

Dark day in US history

Hundreds of Trump supporters storming the US Capitol is a disgraceful act. President Donald Trump set a terrible precedent by inciting his supporters. Several world leaders have condemned this assault. It will go down as a dark day in US history.

Only ideology survives

Trump has diminished his own dignity as a president besides creating an indelible taint on the system in the US. In democracy, only ideology survives, not hostility and violence.

Much to answer for

The insurrection at the US Capitol will remain one of the darkest chapters in US history. The Republican party, which has been supportive of Trump's destructive behaviour and wayward claims all along, has much to answer for.

Incited by incumbent head

Leaders the world over are shocked at the incalculable vandalism done to the Capitol Hill in the US. What made it worse was the fact that it was incited by none other than the incumbent president.

The rot in US polity

The Capitol Hill siege shows the extent of the rot that has seeped into the underbelly of US polity. It is a matter of concern that the oldest democracy in the world is showing signs of decrepitude.

May usher in new precedent

The incident is not only a blight on the US, but might also usher in a precedent for other nations. Eroding statesmanship and a lust for power are causing certain leaders to deviate from the prescribed ideologies of serving their people.

Can Covaxin work against new strain? ICMR studies

Experts say such experiment can only be in-vitro neutralisation data

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

AS the number of people identified as carrying the UK variant of Covid-19 strain reached 82, experiments began at the ICMR's National Institute of Virology to assess whether Bharat Biotech's Covaxin can neutralise the new strain.

Covaxin, which has been jointly developed by Bharat Biotech and the ICMR, had received the restricted emergency use authorisation by the apex drug regulator in India along with Oxford University-AstraZeneca's Covishield, being manufactured in India by the Serum Institute of India.

The approval of Covaxin, which is still under phase 3 trial in the country, had triggered a torrent of criticism, but a key reason cited by the drug regulator had said that the REU was being granted in the wake of the mutation in Covid-19 that makes it more transmissible.

This confidence was based on the argument by the firm which stressed that Covaxin can generate antibodies against multiple proteins instead of spikes alone which in theory suggests that it might have a better chance against the mutated variants.

"The understanding is that for protection from the variant strains a whole virus vaccine has a better chance as compared to subunit vaccine or only spike protein-based or receptor-binding domain-based vaccines," a senior official at the ICMR told this newspaper.

"To check whether that happens, we will use the vaccine using the culture of virus variants, cell lines and the vaccine," he added. However, some experts expressed their apprehensions that such an experiment can only be in-vitro neutralisation data — comparing between the UK or South Africa strain and the Covid-19 strains that have remained dominant so far.

"What is needed, at least, is to use say sera from RBD vaccine immunised individuals and whole virus vaccine immunised individuals and see if the former group is extremely poor in blocking the variant viruses," said a virologist from a government institution who did not wish to be named.

Positive sign

Pfizer on Friday announced that the Covid-19 vaccine it has developed appeared to work against a key mutation in the transmissible new variants of the coronavirus, as per a laboratory study

DGCA asks airlines to carry Covid vaccines in dry ice boxes

NEW DELHI: With India preparing to roll out Covid-19 vaccines soon, the aviation regulator Director General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) on Friday issued guidelines to all aircraft operators who plan to transport vaccines packed in dry ice to various parts of the country.

All scheduled operators, who have been currently authorised to carry dangerous goods, may carry Covid-19 vaccines packed in dry ice, meeting the regulatory requirements, the guidelines added.

Dry ice transforms into carbon dioxide gas at temperatures higher than -78 degrees Celsius under normal atmospheric pressure and, therefore, it is classified as "dangerous goods" by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), it said.

"It is needless to say that among the various modes of transport, air transport is the most efficient option. Hence, it is imperative that air logistics provide a well-defined procedure that meets the global safety standards and requirements based on local conditions," the DGCA said.

Explaining the need to package the vaccines with dry ice, the DGCA said the temperature maintenance requirement for vaccines is reported to be varying from -8° C to -70° C and hence, the use of refrigerant material during the transportation becomes essential. ENS

Agri laws rollback only solution: Cong

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

AS the eighth round of talks between the Centre and farmer leaders ended inconclusively on Friday, the Congress accused the government of trying to tire out the protesters and stressed that repealing the farm laws was the only solution to the issue.

The party also launched an online campaign in support of the farmers' agitation. Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra met the party's MPs and MLAs from Punjab who are sitting in protest at Jantar Mantar demanding the repeal of the laws. "The only solution is to repeal the three farm laws. There is no other solution. We have always stood by the farmers and we will not step back," she told party leaders from Punjab.

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi took to Twitter extending his support for the farmers.

"The Modi government has betrayed the 'Annadata' of the country for the benefit of their capitalist friends. The farmers have spoken through their agitation. It is the duty of all of us to raise the voice of the 'annadata' and support their demands," he tweeted. He added that peaceful agitation is an integral part of democracy and that the farmers' movement is getting support from all over the country. "You too should raise your voice in support of them and strengthen the voice of farmers so that the anti-agricultural laws are repealed," he added.

Amarinder denies negotiation bid by cops

Chandigarh: Rejecting the Opposition claim that he deputed police officers to 'negotiate' with the protesting farmers, Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh on Friday said he had "naturally asked" police to give him regular intelligence updates related to the agitation. Terming the allegations as "completely baseless and malicious", the CM in a statement said there was no question of deputing police officers to negotiate with the farmers. Singh said he had made it categorically clear that the ball was in the Centre's court and the Punjab government had no role to play in the talks. It was the job of the state police to keep a tab on the evolving situation and it is his job as both chief minister and home minister to remain updated about all developments, he added.

Not just Acts, there are other issues too: Khattar

New Delhi: Haryana CM Manohar Lal Khattar on Friday met Home Minister Amit Shah and discussed issues relating to the ongoing farmers' protest, stating a solution could have been reached during the meeting between the Centre and agitating farmers if repealing of the new farm laws was the only issue. Khattar's comments came as the eighth round of talks between Centre and farmers' unions remained inconclusive. Khattar said he was hopeful for a solution and said only because there is hope that is why the next round of the talk has been fixed for December 15. "We are hopeful. If there was no outcome today, maybe a solution will be reached in the next round. If repealing of laws was the only issue, a solution would have been reached, there are several other issues to be addressed," he said.

Canadian oppn leader under govt scanner

New Delhi: India on Friday said that it has noted reports of Canadian Opposition leader Ramandeep Brar being present at the farmers' protest site. "We are currently ascertaining facts in the case. Once that is done, the future course of action would be decided," ministry of external affairs spokesperson Anurag Srivastava said.

Brar courted controversy after he posted pictures of himself with protesting farmers at the Singu border. The Canadian politician is an OCI (0verseas Citizen of India) card holder. Persons with OCI cards are not allowed to take part in protests in India. The Canadian leader's action could land him in trouble if the MEA ascertains that he was in violation of the guidelines. ENS

The bench also observed that the unarmed officials stood little chance against heavily armed poachers. Solicitor General Tushar Mehta agreed with the court's suggestion.

In Delhi and some other states, too, deaths of dozens of birds at a few places have been reported and the samples have been sent for testing to check if the mortality was caused by the H5N1 virus or its H5N8 sub-type. The Centre has asked all the states to keep a vigil on any unusual mortality among birds and to report immediately so that necessary measures can be taken as quickly as possible.

In Haryana, officials confirmed the death of 4.31 lakh birds due to the avian flu and said over 1.66 lakh birds will be culled

Central teams have been deployed to visit Kerala, Haryana and Himachal for monitoring and for epidemiological investigation.

In Haryana, samples from two poultry farms in Panchkula district have tested positive while the presence of the virus has also been reported in samples of migratory birds in Junagadh district of Gujarat and crows in Sawai Madhopur, Pali, Jaisalmer and Mohar districts of Rajasthan.

In Haryana, officials confirmed the death of 4.31 lakh birds due to the avian flu and said over 1.66 lakh birds will be culled. Animal Husbandry and Dairying Minister JP Dalal said samples of the dead birds were initially sent to the Regional Disease Diagnostic Laboratory in Jalandhar but due to a delay in report, the samples were sent to the National Institute of High Security Animal Diseases, Bhopal. As per the report received, the birds of the Panchkula poultry farms were infected with H5N8 virus, which is less pathogenic for humans. The state government has declared the area within one-km radius of the two poultry farms as 'Infected Zone' and from 1 km to 10 km as 'Surveillance Zone'.

In Madhya Pradesh, Director, Animal Husbandry, RK Rokde said the virus outbreak in poultry and other birds had been confirmed in Indore, Neemuch, Guna, Agar-Malwa, Mandsaur, Khandwa and Khargone districts. Farcical actions: India slams Pakistan on Lakhvi's sentencing

@New Delhi

INDIA on Friday slammed Pakistan over the sentencing of 26/11 mastermind Zaki-ur-Rehman Lakhvi, saying the timing of the action suggests Islamabad's intention of conveying a sense of compliance ahead of key global meetings.

"The timing of these actions clearly suggests the intention of conveying a sense of compliance ahead of the APJG meeting and next FATF plenary meeting in February 2021," Ministry of External Affairs Spokesperson Anurag Srivastava said.

"It has become routine for Pakistan to come up with such farcical actions prior to important meetings. UN proscribed entities and designated terrorists act as proxies for Pakistani establishment to fulfill its anti-India agenda. It is for the international community to hold Pakistan to account and ensure that it takes credible action against terror groups, terror infrastructure and individual terrorists," he added.

Lakhvi was sentenced to 15 years in jail in a terror-financing case by an anti-terrorism court in Lahore. The LeT commander was arrested by the Counter-Terrorism Department (CTD) of Punjab province last Saturday.

"The Anti-Terrorism Court (ATC) Lahore convicted Lakhvi for commission of offences of terrorism financing in a case registered by the CTD for 15 years under different section of the Anti-Terrorism Act 1997," a court official as saying after the hearing. He is also on the NIA's most wanted list.

Judge Ejaz Ahmad Buttar sentenced Lakhvi to five years of rigorous imprisonment each on three counts with a fine of PKR 100,000 (approximately $620) each on three counts.

Lakhvi pleaded before the court that he was 'falsely implicated' in this case.

"We are engaged with the US government for increased predictability in the visa regime and to minimise inconvenience to Indian nationals," Srivastava said.

Key BJP meeting amid SC glare on BSP-Cong merger

Top 3 leaders of Rajasthan unit summoned to Delhi to meet Nadda to hone strategy

RAJESH ASNANI @Jaipur

WITHIN hours of the Supreme Court notice to Rajasthan Assembly Speaker on the merger of six BSP MLAs into the ruling Congress legislature party on Thursday, the BJP High Command summoned three of its top leaders from the state for an emergency meeting in Delhi. BJP chief of the state unit Satish Poonia, Leader of Opposition in the Assembly Gulab Chand Kataria, and his deputy leader Rajendra Rathore were asked to rush to Delhi for a meeting with national BJP President J P Nadda.

The emergency meeting between the BJP's 'top trio' and the party high command is being linked to the top court issuing notices to Speaker CP Joshi and six former BSP MLAs on a plea seeking stay on his decision allowing the BSP MLAs to merge with the Congress.

Besides, the BSP-Congress merger controversy, some say the discussions in the BJP high command may also revolve around the recent break up with the Hanuman Beniwal-led RLP over the farmers' agitation. In addition, the state is getting ready for by-elections to three seats of the Rajasthan Assembly.

The controversial merger in 2019 was a big boost to Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot, as the tally of the Congress crossed 100 in the House of 200 MLAs. The merger had come into sharp focus during the Sachin Pilot-led revolt last July-August as it played a vital role in enabling the Ashok Gehlot-led state government to retain its majority.

Since then, the Poonia-Kataria-Rathore trio has been repeatedly asserting that the Gehlot government would fall within six months. Recently, Gehlot had claimed that the BJP was making efforts to topple his government.

Raje kept away

The BJP has kept Vasundhara Raje away from the meeting. At the height of the crisis, there were rumours that Raje had helped save the Gehlot government

The high command has reportedly kept former chief minister Vasundhara Raje away from the Delhi meeting. At the height of the political crisis after Pilot's revolt, there were rumours that Raje had helped save the Gehlot government from being toppled.

The apex court on Thursday heard separate petitions filed by the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) and BJP MLA Madan Dilawar against the August 24 last year order passed by the Rajasthan High Court. The High Court had dismissed the BSP's petition against the September 18, 2019 order passed by the Assembly Speaker approving the merger. It had, however, allowed the BSP to file a disqualification petition with the Speaker raising plea of defection of the six legislators. The Rajasthan High Court had asked the Speaker to decide within three months the disqualification petition filed by the BJP MLA against the merger.

Nadda to kick off BJP's rural outreach in Bengal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

BJP chief J P Nadda will kick off his party's rural outreach in the poll bound West Bengal by addressing the first of the planned 40,000 meetings on Saturday in the state ahead of the Assembly elections.

"The BJP chief will reach Jagdanandpur village at Katwa in East Bardhaman on Saturday where he will address Krishok Surokkha Gram Sabha which will mark the beginning of 40,000 such meetings to be held by the party across West Bengal before the Assembly elections," said Anil Baluni, the BJP's media head in a statement. He stated that Nadda will kick-start door to door rice collection Ek Mutthi Chawal Sangrah campaign from Jagdandpur also. The Ek Mutthi Chawal Sangrah campaign of the BJP is to reassert the party and its government's commitment and conviction towards the growth, progress and prosperity of farmers, he added.

Baluni also stated that the BJP ahead of the Assembly elections will reach out to the homes of all the 73 lakh villagers across the state. Nadda will also take lunch at a farmer's house in the Jagdanandpur village. Nadda will also hold a core committee meeting of the party in Burdwan on Saturday.

Meanwhile, BJP national general secretary Kailash Vijayvargiya on Friday said that the saffron party, if voted to power in West Bengal, will ensure that each farmer of the state gets ₹18,000 in arrears under the PM Kisan scheme.

The assertion of Vijayvargiya, the BJP's West Bengal incharge, came days after Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee indicated that she was agreeable to implement the central scheme in the state, under which farmers get Rs 6,000 a year in three equal instalments.

The move of the Trinamool Congress supremo, made months before the assembly election, is being seen as an attempt to blunt the BJP's accusation that her party is preventing farmers of the state from getting benefits of the scheme.

"Farmers of Bengal will get their due after the Mamata Banerjee government goes and the BJP government comes to power," Vijayvargiya said, while addressing a party rally at Nandigram in Purba Medinipur district.

The mafia controls coal and sand mining in the state and indulges in cattle smuggling, he alleged, asserting that those involved in such rackets will be driven out by the BJP. Describing the TMC as a virus, the BJP's West Bengal president Dilip Ghosh said that his party is its vaccine which will make the TMC leave the state.

Joining Mamata's Singur movement was wrong: Roy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

BJP'S national vice-president Mukul Roy on Friday said if his party comes to power in West Bengal, it will make efforts to bring the Tata Motors back to the state. Roy, who was the second-in-command in the TMC before joining the saffron camp, admitted that his participation in the agitation against the company setting up a plant in Singur was a "wrong decision".

"Participating in Mamata Banerjee's Singur movement to drive out Tata Motors was a wrong decision and if our party comes to power in the state, we will meet PM Narendra Modi and request him to take steps to bring the Tatas back to Bengal. No industrialist is keen to come to Bengal after the Tatas left," said Roy while addressing a rally in East Midnapore's Nandigram, the epicentre of the movement against the then Left Front government's land acquisition.

Friday's rally was organised under the leadership of former TMC strongman Suvendu Adhikari, who was elected from Nandigram as an MLA. Mamata was scheduled to address a rally at the same place on January 7 but the party postponed the event. Adhikari, who joined the BJP recently, had announced the rally to challenge his former "boss".

Referring to Mamata's statements labelling Adhikari as a traitor, BJP's national general secretary and observer for Bengal Kailash Vijayvargiya reminded her how she had left the Congress in 1997 and formed her own party.

Defections depleting Maha BJP ranks

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THROWN out of power in Maharashtra by the unprecedented alliance of traditional rivals Shiv Sena and the Congress-NCP combine, the BJP has been facing an uphill task of keeping its flock together in the state.

For the saffron party's state leadership, every alternate day has been dawning with some or the other leader joining either the NCP or the Sena. The party is also feeling the vacuum left behind by mass leaders like Gopinath Munde and Pramod Mahajan. Veteran politician Eknath Khadse, who recently crossed over to the NCP, said the BJP was no more a party of honest workers. "I spent almost 40 years in the BJP and helped it expand in every nook and corner of the state. There were days when no one wanted to join the BJP and people used to criticise us as a 'Brahmin-Baniya party'. I worked hard along with my leaders Munde and Mahajan to change the party's image. But, I was humiliated and saw no future in the party," Khadse said. "The present leadership cannot keep the flock together for a long time. Sooner or later, people will leave the party."

State minister and NCP leader Nawab Malik said, "Every day we get calls from BJP leaders and workers showing their willingness to join the NCP. Our Maha Vikas Aghadi is more stable and secured now."

A senior BJP leader admitted that the MVA government is unlikely to fall anytime soon. "Our leadership tried but could not succeed. Now, the NCP and the Sena will fight the next assembly elections together. Therefore, everyone who had joined the BJP for power is suddenly seeing a dim future," said the leader.

Many BJP leaders have become restless after they started receiving notices for old cases, he added. The state police had filed an FIR against BJP MLA and former minister Girish Mahajan in connection with an extortion case. He is known to be close to former chief minister Devendra Fadnavis. MLC Prasad Lad received a notice from state's Economic Offense Wing for alleged fraud in BMC in 2014. The Opposition leader in the legislative council Pravin Darekar is facing inquiry in a bank fraud case.

Another BJP leader said the party's future in the state is now dependent on PM Narendra Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah.

CONG, SENA RIFT OVER AURANGABAD WIDENS

Mumbai: The rift in the Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) in Maharashtra over renaming Aurangabad city has widened after the Chief Minister's Office (CMO) mentioned the city as Sambhaji Nagar in a tweet even as the Congress strongly opposed the move. Shiv Sena, which heads the three-party alliance in the state, has been at loggerheads with Congress, which says that renaming does not figure in the common minimum programme of the alliance. Replying to the tweet, State Congress chief Balasaheb Thorat reiterated his party's opposition.

4G network may be back as L-G assures 'good news'

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

LT Governor Manoj Sinha's assurance on 'good news' has rekindled the hopes of the people about the restoration of high-speed 4G internet in Jammu and Kashmir. High-speed 4G internet was suspended hours before the scrapping of Article 370 and the bifurcation of J&K by the Centre on August 5, 2019.

Following the Supreme Court directions, 4G network was restored in two districts – Ganderbal in the Valley and Udhampur in Jammu – on August 16 last. However, the network remains suspended in 18 others districts despite repeated pleas from students, traders, government employees, civil society members, professionals, doctors and politicians.

There were expectations that restoration of 4G network would follow the successful completion of the first-ever District Development Council (DDC) polls in J&K. However, it has not happened so far. "I know 4G is working in just two districts of J&K. A committee is examining the issue. There will be good news soon in the coming days," Sinha had told reporters in Jammu on Thursday.

Currently, landline and mobile phones with 2G throttled mobile internet services is operational in J&K after their restoration on January 25, 2020. Due to the suspension of high-speed internet, people from all sections of society, including students, government employees, and doctors, have been facing inconvenience. The students have been the worst hit, as they could not properly attend the online classes due to low speed internet after the outbreak of Covid-19 in March last.

Army to vacate Kargil land to build township

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE Indian Army would vacate around 3,000 kanals (375 acres) land at Kargil Lower Plateau in six months, starting March, paving the path for a well-planned civilian township. The one-and-a-half years of talks on the issue culminated in the signing of a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) between the Deputy Commissioner Kargil and CEO of Ladakh Autonomous Hill Development Council (LAHDC) Baseer-ul-Haq Choudhary and Brigade Commander, 121 Infantry Division, Brigadier Vivek Bakshi on Friday.

The demand had grown shriller in the last 20 years. It is very important to us. While the population is increasing, there is no space to accommodate the people

Sijad Kargili, a leader

The army had been using the land locally known as Khurbathang plateau for field and firing range, logistics, and operational purposes. The civilian administration has assured the army of alternative land.

As per the MoU, army would start vacating the land in March, and hand over its control to the civil administration in six months. Baseer-ul-Haq told TNIE that army would get alternative tract of 3,000 kanals at two places in Kargil – one near the Maratha Unit Kurbathang and the other at Mulbekh. Baseer-ul-Haq said this would pave the path for the establishment of a new and planned township in Kargil, with all modern amenities under the Smart City project.

In April 2015, the then PDP-BJP coalition government in J&K had asked the army to vacate the Khurbathang plateau. It had decided to provide alternative locations at Mulbekh (75 acres) and upper Yogmathang (187 acres).

When asked about the future of the structures raised by army on the land, Baseer-ul-Haq said, "It will be decided after proper guidelines and protocols are framed. The guidelines will decide on providing compensation, if any, to the army for the structures."

Provide security to inter-faith couple, HC tells cops

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

WHILE issuing orders to provide protection to another interfaith couple, Allahabad High Court observed that nobody could interfere in peaceful life of two adults residing together. While delivering the order on Wednesday, the single-judge bench of Justice Saral Srivastava reiterated that no one was entitled to disrupt the lives of two adults choosing to live together willingly. The couple had petitioned the court after facing harassment from their respective families.

The case pertained to a Hindu woman from Bijnore in Western UP. She had claimed that she converted to Islam and solemnized her marriage with her Muslim husband. The couple presented all the documentary evidence to establish they were adults and wanted to live together of their own free will. After hearing the submissions made by the couple, the court directed the husband of the petitioner to deposit a sum of ₹3 lakh in favour of the woman. The court also issued directives to the Bijnore SSP to provide adequate protection to the couple, if necessary, and posted the matter for next hearing on February 8.

In support of its observation, the bench quoted the observation made by the Supreme Court of India in Lata Singh vs State of UP, 2006, case, wherein the apex court had said that India was a free and democratic country. "Once a person becomes major, he or she can marry whosoever, he/she likes. If the parents of either or the two do not approve of such inter-caste or inter-religious marriage, the most they can do is that they can cut off social relations with their son or daughter. But they cannot harass the person who undergoes such inter-caste or inter-religious marriage", the court had said.

'Banks will need further recapitalisation'

The Budget should keep in mind realistic estimate for bank recapitalisation plan, economists tell PM Narendra Modi

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

AS India prepares for the crucial Union Budget, which would set course for economic pick-up after the Covid carnage, economists have asked the government to be generous with the fiscal measures and have warned of weakness in the financial sector which could be a problem spot in the upcoming financial year. A group of leading economists, in their meeting with Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, on Friday said the government should further recapitalise banks, push for divestment and the focus should be on promoting growth. However, it should be "generous" with recapitalisation plans for banks which are "under strain".

"The general agreement was that the economy is doing better but there are many trouble spots. Financial sector is a matter of concern and the budget should keep in mind realistic estimates for bank recapitalisation, otherwise the weakness in the financial sector can detail the growth," a senior economist who attended the meeting, told this publication. The meeting was attended by Arvind Panagariya, Bibek Debroy, KV Kamath, Rakesh Mohan, Shankar Acharya, Soumya Kanti Ghosh, Abheek Barua, Ravindra Dholakia, Sonal Verma and other members of the Prime Minister's economic advisory council.

While the economists appreciated many initiatives taken under the Atmanirbhar Bharat initiative, they have asked the government to relax some of the tariff measures and not to be so rigid in imposing extra tariff. "Increasing tariffs should not be the only way to promote Atmanirbhar Bharat. There has to be a balancing act. India should not be seen as a close market, if we want to invite foreign investment," said one of the economists. Sources say that "the Prime Minister was very receptive to the ideas and took note of the suggestions." He also discussed the impact of the relief packages given so far and asked if any other sectors needed immediate attention.

The meeting ahead of the Budget holds importance as the India slowly recovers from its first economic recession.

Fiscal worries to be kept aside

Most economists have agreed that the government should keep fiscal worries aside for this year and be generous with expenditure on sectors which require focus. They also suggested bringing more tax reforms, according to sources.

Higher tax set offs for NPA-laden banks in the offing

JAYANTA ROY CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

THE finance ministry is mulling increasing the tax deduction limit for banks and non-banking financial companies (NDFCs) given the huge amount of bad loans which are likely to accrue to the country's financial system as a result of the pandemic.

Tax laws allow banks to claim up to 8.5 per cent of their gross total income in a year as deduction against their bad and doubtful loans, though in most cases the banks have to provide for higher non-performing assets (NPAs) and doubtful loans, according to RBI guidelines. NBFCs, on the other hand, get a tax set off of just 5 per cent since 2017-18, despite making out a case for parity with banks on this issue.

Officials said they were considering raising the level to 10-12 per cent for banks and increasing the set-off for NBFCs too. "We have been approached by bankers and by chambers of commerce asking for a higher set-off at 15 per cent and equating banks and NBFCs... however that may not be possible given certain structural problems," said revenue department officials.

Banks have been given the facility of tax set-offs for bad loans since 1979 in the Finance Act of 1980, initially for rural loans, later extended to all loans in line with international practise.

"The move is a good one as NPAs and stressed assets reported by banks are a percentage of their total advance which is far larger than their incomes. The 8.5 per cent set off doesn't really cover the NPA losses which in the aftermath of the pandemic is likely to bloat," said Sanjay Bhattarachyya, former managing director of State Bank of India. Gross NPAs of banks are expected to rise to 10.1-10.6 by March 2021, according to a report published by ICRA last month. Meanwhile, the financial stability report released by the Reserve Bank of India in July had forecast gross NPAs of all banks to jump to as much as 8.5-12.5 per cent.

"We will also look into demands that the section 36(1)(via) which allows this set-off Is expanded to clarify that deduction could be allowed for all categories of loans for which the RBI guidelines allow," officials added.

WORLD BANK PROJECTIONS ON ECONOMY INCONSISTENT

The World Bank was inconsistent in its prediction about Bangladesh's economy, according to Finance Minister AHM Mustafa Kamal. "Sometimes, they make a prediction and then frequently shift positions," he said this week. His remarks come amid the backdrop of the World Bank's forecast that Bangladesh's GDP growth will be 1.6% in FY21, while the government set the target at 7.4%. The projected decline in GDP growth also comes just when Bangladesh completes 50 years of existence as a republic since its independence in 1971. He believes the country's economic performance has been doing better compared to other countries and that all the sectors were performing better, except imports, which fell due to a downturn in revenue collections. According to him, the government will review the situation and take measures to improve revenue collections in the coming weeks.

BETTER OUTLOOK FOR GDP GROWTH IN 2021: FITCH

Bhutan's real GDP is likely to grow by 4.7% in 2021, rebounding from a 3.5% contraction in 2020, according to Fitch. Assuming Bhutan will reopen its borders to international tourists by H2 2021, it should drive increased activity for services, particularly hotels and restaurants, transport and retail trade, which together account for 23% of GDP. Bhutan remains effectively closed to inbound tourism as on January, 2021 since the country's decision to shut its borders in March, 2020. This has resulted in about an 88% fall in tourist arrivals and revenue in 2020. An almost complete absence of tourism activity for 2020 crippled hospitality and transport services, while manufacturing and construction were also affected during 2020 from disruptions to critical inputs, temporary export restrictions, foreign labour shortages and weaker external demand. However, a rise in hydropower output and exports due to the on-streaming of 720 mw hydropower project likely cushioned the economy's decline.

THAILAND

ECONOMY MAY LOSE $10 BN IN Q1

Thailand's economy could lose as much as $10 billion in Q1 after its largest coronavirus outbreak saw consumer mood sink to a five-month low in December, according to latest data. The consumer confidence index dropped for the first time in three months to 50.1 in December from 52.4 in November, as people feared a surge in infections would hit the economy and jobs, as per the survey. The index hit a record low of 39.2 last April during the peak of the first wave and the impact of the new outbreak could be 200-300 billion baht in Q1. Analysts say, new restrictions, including closures of entertainment venues and schools in the capital Bangkok and other provinces, could hamper Thailand's economic recovery. They predict the economy to grow 2.2% this year vs 2.8% earlier and believe that the government will need at least 200 billion baht to shore up the economy.

India likely to be the second worst-hit economy among Southeast Asian peers

SUNITHA NATTI

INDIA is likely to suffer the second highest GDP contraction among all South East and Asia Pacific economies in FY21. If the estimated 8.1 per cent growth contraction in the Philippines makes it the highest among the subset, India's projected 7.7 per cent deceleration places it second, followed by Thailand's economy, which is set to shrink 6.8 per cent.

The worst-hit were those with extended lockdowns combined with large domestic outbreaks like the Philippines or domestic policy uncertainty like Malaysia, and Thailand and those with a heavy reliance on tourism and travel.

According to the World Bank's latest forecasts, Southeast economies endured a rather sober fate in 2020 and sadly, the trend may prolong in 2021.That's because many (clearly barring China) are highly dependent on either services sector, exports or tourism. For instance, tourism-dependent Bhutan, Maldives, Nepal and Sri Lanka were hit hard. Maldives is likely to see more than a decade of per capita income gains wiped out in 2020, while Bangladesh, which had been one of the fastest-growing emerging markets prior to the pandemic, growth decelerated to an estimated two per cent in FY20 suppressed both by domestic activity and caused a double-digit contraction in exports.

Likewise in Pakistan, growth may shrink 1.5 per cent in FY20 due to monetary and fiscal tightening prior to the outbreak. Recovery will be subdued, averaging 1.3 per cent in the next two years but below potential growth owing to continued fiscal consolidation pressures and services sector weakness.

In Sri Lanka, the pandemic-induced shock further increased an already-high risk of debt distress with its sovereign spread over a 1,000 bps above pre-pandemic levels. In Bangladesh, which relies on manufacturing and exports, recovery may be particularly modest with export growth remaining weak, especially in the ready-made garment sector.

For others like Bhutan or Nepal, tourism revenue may be significantly below the pre-Covid 19 levels due to depressed demand given continued restrictions on international travel. Meanwhile, China and Vietnam are the only outliers with GDP growth expanding by 2 per cent and 2.8 per cent, respectively supported by a quick and sustained resumption of production and exports, besides stimulus-fueled public investment. Meaningful foreign direct investments helped Vietnam, which unfortunately is projected to suffer an output loss of 4 per cent compared to pre-pandemic projections by 2022. The average size of fiscal policy packages within the East Asia and Pacific region was about five per cent of GDP comparable to the emerging market and developing economies, followed by policy rate cuts.

Moreover, to cover the additional financing needs, several governments used domestic borrowing like China, Indonesia, Myanmar, the Philippines, while others relied more on external financing.

According to the World Bank, India's growth rate may recover to 5.4 per cent in 2021, as the rebound from a low base is offset by muted private investment amid financial sector weaknesses. Bad loans were already at high levels before the pandemic struck and the economic downturn may lead to further insolvencies among financial as well as non-financial corporations.

Worst seems to be over

The projected GDP growth of 7.7 per cent for 2020-21 does indicate that the worst is over. India Ratings estimates the Indian economy to surpass the FY20 level in FY22, but in a meaningful way in FY23.

Mercedes-Benz cars to get dearer from Jan 15

CHENNAI: India's largest luxury car maker Mercedes-Benz India announced an increase in its cars' price — in the range of five per cent — which would be effective from January 15. The price increase would range between ₹2 lakh for a C-Class to ₹15 lakh for an AMG GT 63 s 4 Door Coupe. "The weakening of the Indian currency compared to the euro in the past six-seven months, combined with an increase in input costs, has been exerting significant pressure on the overall costs," Mercedes-Benz India said, adding that a combination of these factors led to the hike in vehicle prices.

Real estate industry seeks premium cut in all states

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE recent move by the Maharashtra government to reduce premiums charged by the civic authorities by 50 per cent basis ready reckoner rates of 2019 or 2020, whichever is more, until December 31, 2021, is being widely welcomed by the industry. Ficci's Real Estate Committee on Friday said that the real estate sector desires a similar move to be implemented in other states as well. According to the committee, the move will not only trigger cost reduction but also enable the developers complete their projects on time with a major enhancement in developers operational capacity.

"This move will ensure that projects stuck for last mile funding, or that have no takers of unviable projects, are considered. Despite a hair cut in value by the developers and lately NBFC, it was not appealing to the PE. The reduction in premiums will serve as a role model for other state governments to revive the real estate sector and bring back much needed employment and overall reduce the pain of the pandemic," said Sanjay Dutt, joint chairman, Ficci Real Estate Committee & MD and CEO, Tata Realty & Infrastructure.

Premium refers to the number of charges that are levied by the state with respect to approvals for initiating, progressing and completing an area in a project. According to estimates, these charges constitute around 18 to 25 per cent of total project cost in Mumbai. The developers, who will be taking the benefit been asked to pay the stamp duty.

Concussion subs in football soon

FIFA will let teams use concussion substitutes at next month's Club World Cup in an effort to better protect players with head injuries. The seven-team tournament in Qatar will be "the first international competition to test" improved concussion protocols in soccer, FIFA said Friday.

JADEJA TWEAKS AUSSIE TALE

Left-arm spinner takes four-wicket haul and effects crucial run out to restrict hosts to 338 after Smith century; Gill hits maiden fifty

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

ON a day when Steve Smith showed his class with his first Test century in 16 months, Ravindra Jadeja put his hands up to drag the visitors in what is already proving to be a dogfight of a Test. The country's only elite all terrain all-rounder, after showing his worth with the bat in the second Test, couldn't have scripted a better day two. Four wickets with the ball was followed by a 101 on how to run, pick-up, aim at a single stump and run out Smith to help dismiss the hosts for 338, somewhat below par given they were 206/2 on a pitch that's still decent for batting.

Even if India, who finished the day on 96/2, had other performers — notably Shubman Gill's maiden 50 and Jasprit Bumrah breaking through the middle-order during an inspired spell with the second new ball — it belonged to the southpaw.

If his entree 0f 57 at Melbourne whetted the appetite, his main course, a 4/62 and that run-out, made you pat your tummy in satisfaction. On a strip that didn't offer any help to R Ashwin and Nathan Lyon — the duo are wicketless this match after bowling 40 overs between them — he kept things tight. It's something that he has made into an art form, attack the stumps, keep plugging away and things will happen.

Jadeja triggered the Australian downfall by removing Marnus Labuschagne for 91. It was a nothing shot and the wicket came against the run of play, the length ball bounced a touch more, got the outside edge and was safely pouched by Ajinkya Rahane in the slips.

One of Jadeja's great strengths as a bowler is not be too frazzled when he's being taken for runs. Because of his patience and the undying belief in his craft. That's why he ended up replacing Virat Kohli after the first Test. His patience and the ability to create pressure and completely tie up one end. "The idea was to create pressure as this wasn't a wicket where you would get chance in every over," he said after the day's play. "You can't bowl all deliveries at same pace on this wicket as there was no turn on offer. You had to mix and match and create angles."

That patience was on show when Matthew Wade decided to attack him. He kept tossing it up knowing well that he had Wade's number. His lofted miscue failed to clear mid-on after two fours in as many overs. Both Pat Cummins and Lyon trust their defence but Jadeja's accuracy, especially his quicker ones, are difficult to deal with when you are not attuned to the nature of the surface. It proved, with one bowled and one lbw.

He, however, reserved his best for last — the Smith run out. It's something he will cherish for a long time. "I will rewind and play this run out as this is my best effort. A direct hit from outside the 30-yard circle... that gives you that satisfaction."

To stretch the food analogy, maybe his dessert will see him contribute with the bat, something he has done with ease in recent times — since January 1, 2019, nobody batting at No 6 or below averages more with the bat (min 5 games) than his 60.25. "Whenever I've been given opportunities, more often than not, I've delivered. Yes, outside India, my batting performances have been highlighted more. I'm not thinking too much," he said. If he delivers again, India could be smiling on Saturday night.

'Can't recognise NSFs violating sports code'

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

THE sports ministry and National Sports Federations (NSFs) are facing a torrid time over recognition once again. The Delhi High Court, on Friday, said recognition cannot be granted to NSFs that do not comply with the sports code. The court was hearing a petition filed by sports lawyer Rahul Mehra. The court also directed the ministry to file a reply within 10 days and show if all the NSFs granted recognition comply with the code.

Mehra had filed a petition on November 3 that highlighted how the ministry had granted recognition to 41 NSFs despite not following the 2011 National Sports Development Code (NSDC) in letter and spirit. The two-judge special bench of Justices Vipin Sanghi and Najmi Waziri made serious observations during the hearing and told the ministry that the code must be followed in totality as directed by the Supreme Court. Mehra said, it even told the ministry if federations are not following the code, then they cannot be given recognition.

The court, through an order on November 6, had directed the ministry to tell whether all 41 federations comply with the code. "We are of the opinion that before hearing submissions on admission, Mr Anil Soni, learned CGSC (Standing Counsel) appearing for the Union of India be called upon to assist this court by indicating as to whether all the 41 NSFs (...) are in compliance with the Sports Code."

"Mr. Anil Soni, states that he will prepare a tabulated statement along with copies of the replies submitted by all the 41 NSFs, in terms of the letter dated 07.08.2020 issued by the ministry and the latter's satisfaction apropos the requirements."

According to the petitioner, the court took exception for not filing these details and had given ministry one last opportunity to file the affidavit failing which the sports secretary needed to be present during court's next hearing on January 22.

Interestingly, the sports ministry while granting recognition to all the federations, had inserted a clause that indicated all NSFs were not complying with the sports code. The letters granting recognition said they have been given six months time to align their constitution with the sports code.

The petitioner pointed this out to the bench and in his petition he said, the respondent "erred in not initiating appropriate action against NSFs despite knowing/possessing material that disclose that the NSFs have been and are in violation of the Sports Code". He therefore urged the court to derecognise the 41 NSFs that had been granted recognition (until November 3). According to the sports ministry website, there are 54 recognised units as of now.

The ministry had granted recognition to 14 NSFs like Athletics Federation of India, Boxing Federation of India, Indian Golf Union till December 31 because elections were due. The petitioner in fact requested the court to call these elections null and void because they were held without amending the constitution as per sports code. According to the petitioner, the court observed that ministry should not take a call on 14 federations' recognition.

Stricter lockdown in Brisbane raises fresh concerns

AFP @ Sydney

BRISBANE'S snap coronavirus lockdown raised fresh concerns over the final Test on Friday as India insisted they should avoid quarantine in the Australian city. The three-day lockdown, starting Friday, over a single case of the infectious UK variant follows days of reports that India are unhappy about having to undergo another round of isolation. Australia and India are due to travel north to Queensland on Tuesday for the final game starting on January 15.

"We've written to CA (Cricket Australia) asking them to relax the quarantine rule in Brisbane," a BCCI official said. Queensland state authorities said the Brisbane Test was not impacted by the new lockdown. Australia's different states set their own coronavirus restrictions. "Queensland Cricket and CA will continue to work with the Queensland government to ensure the Test is delivered safely," a statement said.

Hyderabad hammer NorthEast to go third

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE goals have started flowing in again for Hyderabad FC as they hit four goals in consecutive games, dismantling NorthEast United FC 4-2 in ISL at Tilak Maidan Stadium on Friday. The result means Hyderabad climb to third spot with 15 points from 10 games while NorthEast are seventh with 11 points from 10 games. They have now not won in their past six attempts.

The Nizams had scored only seven goals in their first nine matches but have now scored eight in two with all the players contributing. What will be even more pleasing for coach Manuel Marquez will be the fact that players apart from top scorer Aridane Santana have started stepping up.

"It is not easy to score four in successive games. So I'm very happy. All the players put in a lot of hard work. Liston has all the attributes to become a top player and hopefully, he keeps improving," Hyderabad coach Marquez observed post match.

Railway concession for athletes under review, unlikely now

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

UNLESS Indian Railways starts operating regular trains, restoration of concession in passenger fares under various categories, which was withdrawn in March last year due to Covid-19, looks unlikely. However, this doesn't mean there is no possibility of restoration of the withdrawn concession as the Railways has assured appropriate decisions keeping the best interest of all in mind.

The Indian Olympic Association president Narinder Batra requested sports ministry to reinstate the concession for athletes as sporting activities have resumed across the country and these sportspersons need to travel to different parts of the country to take part in state and national level tournaments. In the wake of the IOA's request, sports minister Kiren Rijiju on Thursday has written to the railway minister Piyush Goyal urging him to restore the concession for athletes to facilitate their participation in the tournaments.

According to railway ministry, "It may be noted that Indian Railways had revised its list of concessions on March 20, 2020 as a measure to discourage travel when the nationwide lockdown was being enforced to counter the spread of coronavirus. The situation is not normal yet."

> Indian Railways is committed to the good health, safety and well-being of all it's travellers. Continuance of removal of some of the concessions is to be seen in that context. All stakeholders are being apprised of the situation under which the concessions had been withdrawn.
>
> Railway ministry

"Regular trains of Indian Railway have not been restored due to that. Only special trains are being run to ensure essential movement of passengers. The pre-Covid concessions were valid only for regular trains. They were even then non-applicable for special trains. The situation is constantly under review and examination," said a statement.

Speaking specifically on the concession for athletes, railway ministry said appropriate further decisions are being taken in the best interest of all. "Indian Railways is committed to the good health, safety and well-being of all it's travellers. Continuance of removal of some of the concessions is to be seen in that context. All stakeholders are being apprised of the situation and circumstances under which the concessions had been withdrawn."

The Indian Railways had withdrawn concession in 38 categories out of 53. The withdrawn categories included concessions in passengers fares for senior citizens and athletes.

Boxing body elections in person on February 3

CHENNAI: The much-delayed elections of Boxing Federation of India (BFI) will be held in person on February 3 in Gurugram. The BFI filed an affidavit with the Delhi High Court along with the proposed election schedule during a hearing on Friday. Earlier, the polls were scheduled on December 18, but was delayed following which Uttar Pradesh Amateur Boxing Association sought court's intervention. The UP unit also requested the court to change the returning officer but the court did not pass any order. Incumbent President Ajay Singh has been challenged by BJP leader Ashish Shelar for the president's post.

Three shuttlers banned for life for match-fixing

NEW DELHI:The Badminton World Federation (BWF) on Friday handed life bans to three Indonesian shuttlers for involvement in match-fixing, match manipulation and betting. The BWF said it was a report by a whistleblower which allowed its integrity unit to start a probe and interview players, following which eight players were provisionally suspended in January last year. The apex body said the players can appeal the decision to the Court of Arbitration for Sport within 21 days. "Five others were suspended for between six to 12 years and fined between $3,000 and $12,000 each," it said.

PL warning after Villa scare

AFP @ London

ASTON Villa have confirmed that Friday's FA Cup third-round clash with Liverpool will go ahead late on Friday even though many of their players and staff have tested positive for coronavirus.

Villa were forced to close their training ground on Thursday and there were concerns they would have to forfeit their match. It is understood that no first-team players will take part in the match, after 10 players in the first-team bubble had tested positive.

Meanwhile, clubs were told in a letter from the PL that handshakes, hugging and shirt-swapping should stop, in an attempt to limit the risk of Covid-19 spreading particularly with more transmissible variant. "Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action by the league individually... and/or against the club," said the letter.

Olympics uncertain: IOC member

AP @ Tokyo

A SENIOR member of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) has said he 'can't be certain' the postponed Tokyo Olympics will open in just over six months because of the surging pandemic in Japan and elsewhere.

The comments by Canadian IOC member Richard Pound to British broadcaster the BBC came as Japanese Prime Minister Yoshihide Suga declared a state of emergency on Thursday for Tokyo and surrounding prefectures.

"I can't be certain because the ongoing elephant in the room would be the surges in the virus," Pound said speaking about the future of the Tokyo Games.

Japan's emergency order, which is largely voluntary, will be in force until the first week of February. Tokyo reported a record of 2,447 new cases on Thursday, a 50 per cent increase from the previous day, which was also a record day. Japan has attributed over 3,500 deaths to Covid-19, relatively low for a country of 126 million.

It's crunch time for Tokyo. Organisers say the Olympics will take place, but they are not expected to reveal concrete plans until spring. That's about the same time the torch relay begins on March 25 with 10,000 runners crisscrossing the country for four months leading to the opening ceremony on July 23. Pound also hinted athletes should be a high priority for a vaccine because they serve as 'role models.' Pound's comments seem to contradict IOC President Thomas Bach.

Far sight: Signs of life beyond Earth

NASA has revealed ambitious plans to launch a new telescope into space to help shed light on the mystery of how our universe began. A look at the telescope...

LAUNCH DATE

The space telescope will launch some time between June 2024 and April 2025, and will search for clues about the Big Bang, as well as signs of life beyond our planet

WHAT IS THE BIG BANG THEORY

It is a cosmological model, a theory used to describe the beginning and the evolution of our universe. It says that the universe was in a very hot and dense state before it started to expand 137 billion years ago

Did you know?

SPHEREx will be the first NASA mission to build a full-sky spectroscopy map in near-infrared, and it will observe a total of 102 near-infrared colours

SPHEREx: Spectro-Photometer for the History of the Universe, Epoch of Reionization and Ices Explorer

WHAT IS SPHEREX SPACE TELESCOPE?

- The SPHEREx space telescope serves as a tool for answering cosmic questions. NASA will use the telescope to gather data on more than 300 million galaxies, as well as more than 100 million stars in Milky Way. Telescope's size is about a subcompact car. A preliminary design review was completed in October 2020
- In the Milky Way, the mission will search for water and organic molecules — the essentials for life
- Every six months, the space telescope will survey the entire sky to create a map in 96 different colour bands
- The data can reveal what objects are made of, as well as their distance from Earth. So the map will be 3-D.

THREE MAIN GOALS

1 The first is to look for evidence of what happened less than a billionth of a billionth of a second after the Big Bang. During that time, scientists believe that space itself may have rapidly expanded in a process called inflation, which would have influenced the distribution of matter in the cosmos.

2 The second goal is to study the history of galaxy formation, ranging from the first stars to ignite after the Big Bang, all the way to present day galaxies. It will allow scientists to decipher how the first galaxies initially formed stars.

3 Finally, the mission aims to look for water ice and frozen organic molecules around the newly forming stars in our galaxy, which could provide key clues to life beyond our planet. In fact, the water in Earth's oceans most likely began as interstellar ice. Scientists hope this will help find more about planetary systemts like our.

"Ices in these disks could seed planets with water and other organic molecules. In fact, the water in Earth's oceans most likely began as interstellar ice. Scientists want to know how frequently life-sustaining materials like water are incorporated into young planetary systems

UK, France regulators approve Moderna

Amid rising cases, Great Britain approves the vaccine; 17 million doses ordered as of now; France too say OK

HEALTH

LONDON: Britain on Friday approved a third Covid vaccine for its mass inoculation drive, as regulators gave the green light to a jab developed by US firm Moderna.

Some 1.5 million people have been given doses of the Pfizer-BioNTech or Oxford-AstraZeneca vaccines since early December, and the government is aiming to have 15 million inoculated by mid-February.

Health Secretary Matt Hancock said the approval of the Moderna jab by the independent Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) was another shot in the arm for the programme.

"This is further great news and another weapon in our arsenal to tame this awful disease," he said.

"Moderna's vaccine will allow us to accelerate our vaccination programme even further once doses become available from the spring."

The MHRA was the first regulator in the world to approve the Pfizer-BioNTech and Oxford-AstraZeneca jabs, allowing the start of what health chiefs said is Britain's biggest-ever vaccination drive.

Hancock's department said the Moderna jab "meets the regulator's strict standards of safety, efficacy and quality".

England's deputy chief medical officer, Jonathan Van-Tam, called the vaccine "highly effective" and said it was "another impressive success for science". The Department of Health and Social Care said it was 94 percent effective in preventing disease, including in the elderly.

Britain has ordered 17 million doses of the vaccine, which will be delivered in the coming months once Moderna increases production capacity, it added. Elderly residents and staff at care homes, the over-70s and the clinically extremely vulnerable are first in line for the jabs, and the government has stepped up the programme to meet its February target. Britain has secured early access to 367 million doses of seven of the most promising vaccines.

France's national health authority also said Friday that it had approved Moderna's vaccine for people 18 and older, following EU approval for the Moderna vaccine on Wednesday.

Shark attack kills woman?

WILDLIFE

A woman has died in what appears to be New Zealand's first fatal shark attack in eight years, police said on Friday. Emergency services responded late Thursday afternoon to reports of a woman 'injured in the water,' at Waihi Beach, a popular tourist spot 153 kilometers drive southeast of Auckland, a police statement said. 'Indications are that she had been injured by a shark,' Police Inspector Dean Anderson said.She was dragged from the water with leg wounds and attempts to resuscitate her failed, media reported. A vacationing doctor joined paramedics, lifeguards and emergency services personnel in attempting to save her, Anderson said.

Croc and robber story

WILDLIFE

Two Australian friends out fishing on their boat came across a naked man in "anest up a tree" in a crocodile-infested mangrove swamp near Darwin. Kev Joiner and Cam Faust offered the man — who had been living on snails — a beer and brought him back to civilisation. "We didn't understand how he got there" and how he survived the crocs, said Joiner, given that his improvised "nest" was within easy snapping distance of the water. "We thought he must have had a big night after New Year's... and done himself a mischief." But it turned out the man — covered in insect bites — was a fugitive wanted for armed robbery. He is now in hospital under armed guard.

China's Chang'e-4 probe resumes work

ASTROPHYSICS

BEIJING: The lander and rover of China's Chang'e-4 probe have resumed work for the 26th lunar day on the far side of the moon, according to the country's space agency.

The Chang'e-4 probe, that made the first-ever soft-landing on the Von Karman Crater in the South Pole-Aitken Basin on the far side of the moon on January 3 last year, has survived 736 Earth days on the moon. The far side of the moon is the hemisphere that never faces Earth, due to the moon's rotation. It is sometimes mistakenly referred to as the "dark side of the moon," even though it receives just as much sunlight as its Earth-facing side.

The lander woke up at 3:13 a.m. on Friday (Beijing time), and the rover Yutu-2, or Jade Rabbit-2, woke up at 10:29 a.m. on Thursday, according to the Lunar Exploration and Space Program Centre of the China National Space Administration.

Arthritis drugs offer life-saving treatment

HEALTH

LONDON: Treating critically ill COVID-19 patients with drugs typically used for arthritis may significantly improve survival, a landmark UK study has found. The findings come from a trial which evaluates the effect of treatments on a combination of survival and length of time patients need support in an intensive care unit (ICU).

Patients across the UK who are admitted to ICU are now set to receive the treatments using the drugs tocilizumab and sarilumab, which can reduce the time spent in hospital by up to 10 days, according to the findings of the study which were revealed this week.

"Results from the government-funded REMAP-CAP clinical trial showed tocilizumab and sarilumab reduced the relative risk of death by 24 per cent, when administered to patients within 24 hours of entering intensive care," the Department of Health and Social Care (DHSC) said.

"Patients receiving these drugs, typically used to treat rheumatoid arthritis, left intensive care between seven to 10 days earlier on average. The rollout of these treatments could therefore contribute significantly towards reducing pressures on hospitals over the coming weeks and months," it said. Updated guidance issued on Friday by the government and the National Health Service (NHS) to trusts across the UK, encourage them to use tocilizumab in their treatment of COVID-19 patients who are admitted to intensive care units, effective immediately.

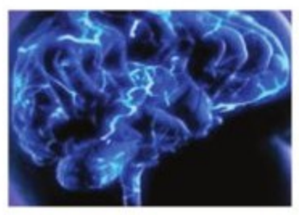
"The results are yet another landmark development in finding a way out of this pandemic and, when added to the armoury of vaccines and treatments already being rolled out, will play a significant role in defeating this virus," said UK Health Secretary Matt Hancock.

"We have worked quickly to ensure this treatment is available to NHS patients without delay, meaning hundreds of lives will be saved. I am proud of the significant role our NHS and its patients have played in this international trial, and grateful to the outstanding scientists who have brought this treatment to our patients."

Ultrasound may treat Parkinson's

RESEARCH

Researchers have found that a scalpel-free alternative to brain surgery has the potential to benefit people with Parkinson's disease symptoms that are much more severe on one side of the body. According to the team more testing is needed but the approach, which uses a technology called focused ultrasound, could offer a new option for patients whose symptoms are poorly controlled by medications and those who cannot or do not wish to undergo traditional brain surgery.



"This small brain region, the subthalamic nucleus, had a very strong and potent effect on parkinsonian symptoms when we targeted it with precise, focused ultrasound energy," said researcher Jeff Elias from the University of Virginia in the US. The technology focuses sound waves inside the body, much like a magnifying glass focuses light.

Warmest year in Europe as mercury rises in world

ENVIRONMENT

NEW DELHI: Globally, 2020 was on par with the warmest year ever recorded, marking the end of the warmest decade on record, while CO2 concentration continues to rise, according to latest data released by the Copernicus Climate Change Service Friday. The C3S of European Union reveals that globally 2020 was tied with the previous warmest year 2016, making it the sixth in a series of exceptionally warm years starting in 2015, and 2011-2020 the warmest decade recorded.

Meanwhile, Europe saw its warmest year on record, 0.4 degree Celsius warmer than 2019 which was previously the warmest year. Together with the Copernicus Atmosphere Monitoring Service (CAMS), C3S also reports that CO2 concentrations in the atmosphere have continued to rise at a rate of approximately 2.3 ppm/year in 2020 reaching a maximum of 413 ppm during May 2020. oth C3S and CAMS are implemented by the European Centre for Medium-Range Weather Forecasts (ECMWF) on behalf of the European Commission with funding by the European Union. — ENS

LIVING ON HOPE

Pfizer study suggests vaccine works against virus variant

HEALTH

WASHINGTON: New research suggests that Pfizer's COVID-19 vaccine can protect against a mutation found in two contagious variants of the coronavirus that erupted in Britain and South Africa.

Those variants are causing global concern. They both share a common mutation called N501Y, a slight alteration on one spot of the spike protein that coats the virus. That change is believed to be the reason they can spread so easily.

Most of the vaccines being rolled out around the world train the body to recognize that spike protein and fight it. Pfizer teamed with researchers from the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston for laboratory tests to see if the mutation affected its vaccine's ability to do so.

They used blood samples from 20 people who received the vaccine, made by Pfizer and its German partner BioNTech, during a large study of the shots. Antibodies from those vaccine recipients successfully fended off the virus in lab dishes, according to the study posted late Thursday on an online site for researchers. The study is preliminary and has not yet been reviewed by experts, a key step for medical research.

But 'it was a very reassuring finding that at least this mutation, which was one of the ones people are most concerned about, does not seem to be a problem' for the vaccine, said Pfizer chief scientific officer Dr Philip Dormitzer.

Viruses constantly undergo minor changes as they spread from person to person. Scientists have used these slight modifications to track how the coronavirus has moved around the globe since it was first detected in China about a year ago. British scientists have said the variant found in the UK ' which has become the dominant type in parts of England -- still seemed to be susceptible to vaccines. That mutant has now been found in the US and numerous other countries.

But the variant first discovered in South Africa has an additional mutation that has scientists on edge, one named E484K. The Pfizer study found that the vaccine appeared to work against 15additional possible virus mutations, but E484K wasn't among those tested. Dormitzer said it is next on the list. Dr Anthony Fauci, the top US infectious disease expert, recently said vaccines are designed to recognize multiple parts of the spike protein, making it unlikely a single mutation could be enough to block them.

TRUMP CONSIDERS SELF-PARDON

Justice Department open to pursuing charges against president; Democrats prepare for second impeachment

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump has discussed with his close aides the possibility of pardoning himself before leaving the office on January 20, American media reports have said.

According to CNN, some of those conversations happened in recent weeks, and the president has sought to know about the legal and political consequences of a self-pardon.

The news comes as Democratic and Republican lawmakers alike rebuked Trump's conduct as thousands of his supporters stormed the US Capitol building on Wednesday and clashed with police, resulting in four deaths and interrupting a constitutional process by Congress to affirm the victories of President-elect Joe Biden and Vice President-elect Kamala Harris in the November 3 election.

It is not clear if the issue has come up since Wednesday's mayhem at the Capitol building fomented by the President's rhetoric or after his recent controversial call with the Georgia Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger, the report said, citing multiple sources.

The president has also asked for legal opinions on whether he has the authority to issue a self-pardon and has been advised on the potential political fallout, it said.

The New York Times reported on Thursday that Trump has suggested in conversations since Election Day that he wants to pardon himself, citing two people familiar with the discussions.

"In several conversations since Election Day, Mr Trump has told advisers that he is considering giving himself a pardon and, in other instances, asked whether he should and what the effect would be on him legally and politically, according to the two people," the Times reported.

The US Justice Department has not ruled out pursuing criminal charges against Trump for his possible role in inciting his supporters to storm the Capitol building, the Times reported.

Capitol police officer dies of injury

WASHINGTON

A US Capitol Police officer (pic) has died of injuries sustained during clashes with a mob of President Donald Trump's supporters who overran a session of Congress, police said late Thursday.

It was the first law enforcement death stemming from the violence at the Capitol on Wednesday which saw flag-waving crowds overwhelm police and break into the legislature.

Four protesters died, including a woman who was shot by police. Three other deaths were reported on the Capitol grounds, but the circumstances remained unclear.

Officer Brian Sicknick, a 12-year veteran of the force, was "responding to the riots on Wednesday, January 6, 2021, at the US Capitol and was injured while physically engaging with protesters," Capitol Police said.

"He returned to his division office and collapsed. He was taken to a local hospital where he succumbed to his injuries" on Thursday night, it said.

US Capitol Police Chief Steven Sund, under pressure from Schumer, Pelosi and other congressional leaders, was forced to resign. Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell asked for and received the resignation of the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate, Michael Stenger, effective immediately. Paul Irving, the longtime Sergeant at Arms of the House, also resigned. Sund had defended his department's response to the storming of the Capitol, saying officers had "acted valiantly when faced with thousands of individuals involved in violent riotous actions." Agencies

TRUMP TO SKIP JOE BIDEN'S INAUGURATION

US President Donald Trump said on Friday he would not attend his successor Joe Biden's inauguration after repeatedly rejecting the election result as a fraud and his supporters violently storming the US Capitol in Washington. "To all of those who have asked, I will not be going to the Inauguration on January 20th," Trump tweeted, without giving a reason for not attending. Not since 1869 has an outgoing US president missed the inauguration of the incoming leader—a ceremony symbolising the peaceful transfer of power. Two days after Trump incited followers to storm Congress, his presidency is in freefall, with allies walking away and opponents calling for his removal. "A new administration will be inaugurated on January 20. My focus now turns to ensuring a smooth, orderly and seamless transition of power," Trump said in a short video on Thursday.

POLICE FACE HEAT OVER BREACH

It is not clear how many officers were on duty on Wednesday, but the Capitol complex is policed by a total of 2,300 officers for 16 acres of ground who protect the 435 House representatives, 100 US senators and their staff

The Capitol Police had set up no hard perimeter around the Capitol. Officers were focused on one side where lawmakers were entering to vote to certify Biden's win

Barricades were set up on the plaza in front of the Capitol building, but police retreated from the line and a mob of people broke through

RULE CHANGE

US tweaks H-1B process to prioritise salary, skills

WASHINGTON

THE outgoing Trump administration on Friday modified the selection process for H-1B visa, giving priority to salary and skills instead of the current lottery procedures.

The notification was published in the Federal Register. It would come into force in 60 days.

The H-1B visa is a non-immigrant visa that allows US companies to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise. The technology companies depend on it to hire tens of thousands of employees each year from countries like India and China.

The next H-1B visa filing season is slated to start on April 1.

The notification, which comes with less than two weeks left in President Donald Trump's tenure, is the latest effort to bar the entry of immigrants to the US.

However, it is too early to say how the modification would impact Indian companies as there is a possibility of the incoming Biden administration reviewing the notification.

There was no reaction from any companies or business bodies on the notification so far.

Restricting immigration has been a focus of the Trump administration since its first days when it issued the travel ban on seven Muslim-majority countries, and it has continued into Trump's final year in office as the White House uses the coronavirus pandemic as cover. PTI

Old goals, new route seems to be the latest workout mantra in the city, as fitness spaces turn towards offering offbeat exercises such as spinning, jiu-jitsu and more

PACKING A NEW PUNCH

VIDYA IYENGAR

New year, new workout routines. After endless days of workouts at home and household chores doubling as exercise, communications professional Zohara Jamal is back to her pre-Covid routine, even giving workouts a spin. "I've taken to spinning, which rides on high energy, with the music getting you all pumped," she says.

Many like Jamal are venturing back to exercising, and fitness spaces too are catering to this growing market that is on the lookout for something different. According to AK Abhinav, founder AKADA, 80 per cent of his students are back to the centre. Sensing a ripe market, he is launching several fitness centres, each focusing on a different aspect. There's AKADA, a space for strength and conditioning based on track and field, gym and weightlifting techniques from sporting activities, a specialised Calisthenics centre in Koramangala which teaches only bodyweight exercises and gymnastics, and an exclusive athletic training centre in Dollars Colony. "The number of enquiries and interest is high because several fitness centres shut down permanently last year due to the pandemic," he says, adding that this interest also arises from the fact that exercising may keep sickness, particularly Covid-19, at bay. "People are looking for something fresh, and a place like AKADA will focus on a new movement every day," says Abhinav.

That's the same thought process behind Brazilian jiu-jitsu gym in Sadashivnagar. When Institute of Jiu-Jitsu opened its doors in November, apprehension was rife considering the contact nature of the martial art form. "We kept wondering whether we were starting at the right time, but regular enquiries have put that concern on the back burner," says coach Rohit Vasudevan. New queries on a daily basis for a niche activity like jiu-jitsu is a big deal considering it's mostly taken up by men. "We currently have 25 men and five women who have signed up for the classes. This ratio is somewhat the same world-over. With looming safety concerns, this self-defence technique is great to opt for because it simulates a real-life attack," he adds.

There's also spinning studio Chakra Athletica on Infantry Road, started by brother-sister duo Nikhil and Nastassja Suri, which has caught the fancy of many Bengalureans. "In the light of Covid-19, we understood that classes wouldn't fill up as quickly as we had planned. But our morning classes have been filling up and we hope to see a similar trend with our evening slots," says Nastassja about the space that opened in October. Their initial challenge lay in opening up people's minds to spinning since rhythm-based riding is a new concept in India. "We had to find ways to get our riders to try a class for themselves to really understand the benefits," she says, adding that although it is a group class, individual riders have complete control over their resistance, thereby determining the intensity of the workout. "This has worked for us because some of our riders are burning an average of over 900 calories during a 45-minute full-body workout."

SPINNING
A popular cardio workout in North America, Latin America, Europe and some parts of Asia, this indoor cycling is a full-body workout that has a low impact on joints

JIU-JITSU
From the family of Japanese martial arts, jiu-jitsu is a self-defence martial art and combat sport based on grappling and submission holds

CALISTHENICS
It is a form of strength training consisting of a variety of movements that exercise large muscle groups

Nikhil Suri

Our morning classes have been filling up and we hope to see a similar trend with our evening slots. We had to find ways to get our riders to try a class for themselves to really understand the benefits of spinning – Nastassja Suri, founder, Chakra Athletica

IN REMEMBRANCE
SATYA PAUL (1942 - 2021)

'He was a pathbreaker for Indian fashion'

Gauri Khan wearing a Satya Paul sari

Apart from being a pioneer in what he did with fashion, Satya Paul was a relaxed, chilled-out, fun and peace-loving person. I first met him in the 1990s, when I moved to Bangalore. He had come here to do a show, and we had dinner afterwards. It was a great interaction. I was also just starting out at that point. I distinctly remember him being a cheerful, energetic and charismatic person.

Satya Paul was a visionary when it came to his work. Of course, there were a few designers who were also up and coming then, but he was the first to make a brand of his name. He also took something as traditional as a sari and reinvented it with different types of prints and jackets that can be worn with it. Being one of the first to do this made him stand out from the crowd. He played with a lot of colours and experimental prints, pop colours on chiffon, and crepe and satin silk saris, which are not the traditional saris. He made this humble piece of garment a glamorous and sexy outfit, something that the cocktail circuit would want to wear. People started looking at the sari as a cool and trendy garment. This resulted in the middle class being less intimidated to own designer wear, which always had an elite status to it. Satya Paul's flagship stores paved the way for boutiques, which designed traditional garments like the sari. This was a revolution for the pre-liberalisation era's fashion scene. We can rightfully call him the 'father of the contemporary sari.'

Besides a modern take on the sari, he also worked to give Indian art and handloom a spot on a global platform. He took the Indian handloom to European and American markets and again, was one of the first to do so. He was quite the pathbreaker for his brand as well for the Indian fashion industry. Thanks to him, Indian craft and artwork got encouragement at a time when not many were appreciative of it. Satya Paul made it a trendy label.

He was also one of the first designers from India to make trendy scarves, cuff links and ties. And this at a time when men's fashion was highly neglected. The scarves and ties came from his forte of playing around with prints on silk. It was also one of the first designer ties I ever owned. That white tie with black and pink print has always held an emotional value for me.

Samudaya Bengaluru's Pampa Bharatha, which was among the inaugural shows that Ranga Shankara staged, is going to be performed again for the theatre's post-pandemic comeback

Staging a comeback

EXPRESS FEATURES

Two scholars from Bengaluru visit Gangadhara Shasana or 10th century Jain poet Pampa's gravestone in the hope of discovering how he died. They are harassed by fundamentalist rowdies who prevent them from visiting the stone in the name of protecting Sanathana Dharma... This is the starting point of the play Pampa Bharatha, which is happening on Jan. 9 at Ranga Shankara. City-based theatre group Samudaya Bengaluru is doing its 105th show of the play, which tries to explore Vikramaarjuna Vijaya, which is the Kannada version of the Mahabharatha, written by the 10th century Jain poet Pampa. "We usually draw morals from two epics, Mahabharatha and Ramayana. But there is a positive and negative side to every story. So the play also draws parallels to the injustice that is happening in current times," explains Keerthy Thondagere, vice president of the 45-year-old theatre group, who is also playing the lead character of Pampa. The play has 15 other characters, some of whom like Karna, come back as spirits to question Pampa of his fate. Through this retelling of the epic, the play explores and introspects what we have all come to know as history today.

A scene from the play Pampa Bharatha

The play, which has been directed by Pramod Shiggaon, was performed in 2004 for the first time, as one of the inaugural shows for Ranga Shankara. The troupe is now performing the show again on the stage of Ranga Shankara, which is reopening after the pandemic started. "After our first show, we had done a couple of shows but discontinued it. We then restarted the show from 2012 onwards. Now when Ranga Shankara is reopening, we are just happy to be performing the play again," says Thondagere.

Pampa Bharatha will be performed on Jan 9 at Ranga Shankara, at 3.30pm and 7.30pm.

VARUNA MUDRA

(MUDRA OF WATER)

In Sanskrit, Varun, which is the name of the Hindu God of 'water' and mudra means 'gesture' or 'seal.' It is also known as Jal-Vardhak Mudra. Jal means 'water', and vardhak means 'enhance'. It is a simple yoga gesture that is designed to balance the water element in the body. It is a hasta (hand) mudra and one of a series of therapeutic mudras thought to have healing properties. It can be practised while seated, prone, standing or even walking — as long as the body is relaxed and the posture is symmetrical. It is particularly beneficial when meditating.

STEPS

- First, sit in any comfortable seating posture and place the hands with palm pointing upwards on the thighs or the knees.
- Meditation postures like Padmasana, Siddhasana, Swastikasana, Vajrasana, etc. are ideal for the practice of mudras.
- Close your eyes and take some deep breaths with the awareness of the breathing process.
- Fold your small finger and tap the tip of the finger to the tip of the thumb.
- The rest of the three fingers should be kept extended as much as possible.
- Removing all thoughts from the mind, focus only on Om.
- In addition, practise with both hands simultaneously.
- Do not decrease or increase the speed of breath from your side.
- Perform this pose for 35 minutes at a stretch every day or for 10 to 12 minutes three times a day.
- You can practise this by standing in Tadasana (Mountain pose), or when sitting on a chair.

BENEFITS

- It provides relief from a range of diseases and ailments that result from a lack of water in the body.
- Whoever drinks less water must practise this because it removes dryness of the body.
- Prevents all types of diseases from dehydration.
- Leads to healing and longevity.
- Prevents gastroenteritis and nerve pain and shrinkage.
- Purifies the blood and improves its circulation in the body.
- Helpful in removing skin disease and also makes the skin beautiful.
- In sour belching and constipation, this mudra is well-known.
- By practising for 20 minutes daily for a month, the body remains flexible.
- Best to practise during summer as it calms thirst.

LIMITATIONS

- Who have phlegm, bile, cold or eosinophilia should avoid this for a long time. Don't press the tips too hard.

Bengalureans aren't cutting cakes any more, they are instead breaking them apart with a hammer, and adding some fun to food with these pinata creations

SMASHING CELEBRATIONS

Pinata cake by Mona Kalro

SIMRAN AHUJA

CUTTING a cake is so passe. Now, Bengalureans are choosing to smash it with a hammer, and watch with delight as goodies come tumbling out. Say hello to the pinata cake – a new trend among bakers these days. According to Heena Poonawala, who runs a home bakery called F2O Bakehouse, these come in different shapes, and comprise an even coating of chocolate with a surprises tucked inside. "Each of these cakes comes with a hammer and once the chocolate mould is broken, it reveals the goodies within," she says, adding that the heart-shaped version is popular with couples for anniversaries. In December alone, Poonawala made 30-35 such cakes for her clients.

Mona Kalro, another home baker who runs the venture, Moka, says some people don't even want a cake filling, instead opting for a range of goodies like brownies, miniature bottles of alcohol or chocolates. "It's an exciting thing to look forward to. So much so that parents aren't even waiting for birthdays to surprise their children with it. With kids being confined indoor, parents want to make life a little more interesting for them with this cake," she explains, adding that her offerings begin from ₹1,500. "It depends what you put inside. Simple chocolates would cost less than imported ones or miniature bottles," she adds.

According to home baker Sneha Vachhaney, while the trend has been around in Delhi and Mumbai for some time, it seems to be catching up in Bengaluru now. "I recently came across someone buying three moulds at a baking supply store for their upcoming bake sale. I am yet to consider selling these myself but the trend is easy enough for anyone to pick up. Once the chocolate is melted and set, one just needs to see what treats to stuff in, before closing it," she says, adding that the trend may pick up more pace once Valentine's Day approaches. "These are great for children and those who like romantic surprises. So couples may order cakes to hide proposal rings and other cute gifts for their loved one," she says.

Agrees Poonawala, who has already started getting enquiries for heart-shaped creations. "The plus side is that the client can give me the goodies to put in and that would reduce the cost of the cake. For now, the starting range is ₹1,000 for an eight-inch diameter cake," she says.

'Working in another language seems like starting afresh'

I am feeling really excited that I am making an entry into a new industry," says Sathish Ninasam, who is joining the sets of his first Tamil film on Saturday. "Just the way one is keen to explore a new place, likewise a new industry allows us to learn new things, and I am looking forward to the experience. Moreover, I will always remain a Sandalwood actor, and so I want to work in other languages when the opportunity arises."

Sathish will be making a temporary camp in Chennai, as he is scheduled to shoot for the film for the next 30 days. "I will be here till Jan. 25," says the actor, who will then come back to shoot the remaining song for Petromax, and will again join the Tamil film sets in Shivamogga. KGF 2 teaser goes viral soon after release

The most-anticipated teaser of KGF: Chapter 2 was officially released ahead of schedule to contain the damage after it was leaked online hours before its planned launch. The teaser was set for release on Friday at 10:18 am to mark the 35th birthday of Yash, the star of the franchise.

The teaser gives us a glimpse of Yash's Rocky stepping up his attack on his enemies. In the video, he nonchalantly takes down the enemy camp with help of his 'little friend', a lightweight machine gun. We also get a glimpse of the antagonist Adheera, played by Sanjay Dutt, Raveena as Ramika Sen and Srinidhi Shetty playing the role of Reena.

The two-part fictional mob drama traces the journey of a dreaded criminal Rocky, portrayed by Yash, and his desire to rule the gold mines of Kolar, which results in a turf war with Adheera. The teaser has gone viral online crossing 70 million in 22 hours of release, and is all set to break the previous records of film teasers soon.

KGF Chapter 2 directed by Prashanth Neel is one of the most-awaited pan-Indian films of this year. The film currently in the post production stages has Ravi Basrur scoring music and Bhuvan Gowda handling the camera work.

'I am being tortured. I stood for you and it's time you stand for me'

Kangana Ranaut has alleged that she is being tortured mentally, emotionally, and physically. She further claimed she has been asked not to disclose to anyone about the kind of torture she is being subjected to.

Kangana released a video on her verified Twitter account on Friday where she spoke about the cases filed against her and the torture that she is facing every day. She added that we are going back to the medieval age where women were burnt at stake.

In the video, Kangana speaks in Hindi: "Ever since I have started speaking for the interest of the nation, the way I am being treated and tortured, the entire country can see that. My house was broken in an illegal manner. Every day new cases are being filed against me because I have spoken for the interest of the farmers. One case has been filed against me even for laughing. My sister Rangoli has protested against doctors being tortured during the beginning of the pandemic. A case was filed against her and my name was also dragged into it, whereas I was not even on Twitter at that time. Our honourable Chief Justice ji has rejected it."

"I have even been ordered to give haajri (attendance) at the police station although I don't know for what reason. I have also been asked not to disclose to anyone or talk about the kind of torture I am facing. I want to ask the honourable Supreme Court, have we returned to the medieval age where women were burnt alive and their voices were silenced?" she added.

"People who are having fun and enjoying this situation, I would like to tell them only one thing that the tears of blood that we have shed in our 1,000 years of subordination, that will be repeated once again if nationalist voices are silenced now," concluded the actress.

"Why am I being mentally, emotionally, and now physically tortured? I need answers from this nation. I stood for you and it's time you stand for me. Jai Hind," tweeted Kangana.

Pankaj Tripathi stars in an underwhelming satire

SHILAJIT MITRA

KAAGAZ
Cast: Pankaj Tripathi, Monal Gajjar, Satish Kaushik
Director: Satish Kaushik
Streaming on: ZEE5

Two details at the start of Kaagaz instantly turned me off. First, we hear the voice of Salman Khan (also the film's producer) deliver the opening narration — replaced, quickly and inexplicably, by the voice of Satish Kaushik (also the film's director). Then comes a montage: tranquil village scenes straight out of a government broadcast. It's sample indication that, despite the uniqueness of its story, Kaagaz will take the most obvious route to tell it.

Bharat Lal (Pankaj Tripathi) is an ordinary bandmaster in Amilo, Uttar Pradesh. At his wife's urging, he agrees to get a loan on his ancestral land, only to discover that his relatives have declared him dead on official records. This is a real offence — prevalent through the 70s and later — and Bharat Lal is rightly indignant. Still, for a long while, he adheres to process, fighting a court case while writing urgent petitions to government overlords. But when none of that manages to elicit a reply, he decides to bend a few rules.

Inspired by the life of Lal Bihari Mritak, a farmer who was listed dead on official papers, Kaagaz has the fixings of a great satire. Much of the film is built around Bharat Lal's attempts to get himself arrested — and thus get his name into the records. There's great comic potential here, let down by callow humour and a blanket lack of wit. Some of the gags are mistimed: Bharat Lal kidnapping his own nephew suggests a character completely different from the righteous activist he'll become. Elsewhere, a thick slab of melodrama descends, like when he sends his wife to enroll for the widow's pension scheme.

RATING 2/5

Satish Kaushik is one of our steadiest actor-directors, thriving especially in mainstream fare. But the social realism of Kaagaz largely eludes him. Now and then, it's hard to shake off the film's old-world feel. There's a duet featuring Alka Yagnik and Udit Narayan. There's an item number to make Vishal Bhardwaj wince. The casting of Pankaj Tripathi doesn't help — for all his easy malleability, the actor is too devoted to his director for his own good. A more grounded performance is turned in by Monal Gajjar, as Bharat Lal's softly disparaging wife.

Late in the film, we see a mob rallying towards a government building. Seething with anger, they push past barricades and raid the offices holding them down. Given the recent siege at the US Capitol, it's the kind of silly coincidence that makes you sit up and take notice of the film. It's also terribly sad: the fact that such an incredible Indian story needs a foreign reference point to feel relevant.
